Attacking Mr. Harding Investigation Welcome Mr. Coolidge's Question Spain's King Wants Mellon

West Palm Beach, Feb. 15.

MR. VANDERLIP, once president of the National City Bank, biggest in the United States, brings President Harding into the oil discussion. Perhaps it is as well that he should force a public hearing and refutation of scandalous gossip that has been heard everywhere. Left to itself the gossip would persist. And official hearing should end it.

THE PLAIN English of Mr. Vanderlip's speech is the accusation or insinuation that the $550,000, paid to President Harding for his Marion newspaper, was not all for the newspaper but part of it for the Teapot Dome lease given by President Harding's Secretary of the Interior.

THAT INSINUATION, which amounts to a direct charge, is the worst ever made against any President of the United States. That it will not be sustained in any particular, the people of this country believe and hope.

PRESIDENT HARDING'S Marion newspaper to begin with was worth every dollar of the five hundred and fifty thousand dollars paid for it. The paper was profitable, making money. It could be made to earn 10 per cent. upon a million dollars.

PRESIDENT HARDING had devoted the better part of his life to building up the Marion Star. He was getting old, his health was not good, as the public knows now only too well. He wished to put his affairs in order, and be able to live apart from the daily struggle of earning a living, when the time came to retire. As a former President of the United States it was natural that he should sell the property. It was bought by newspaper men that own other newspaper properties in Ohio, not bought by oil men.

IT IS unfortunate that Mr. Harding's name should be mentioned at all. Investigation undoubtedly will prove that it was not necessary, and since it has been mentioned it is well to have the entire matter thrashed out and settled.

MANY PEOPLE ask the question that President Coolidge put to a friend the other day: "Why is it that rich people can't be at least as honest as poor people?"

A scandal of bribery and public corruption is revealed, and mixed with it you find names of men so rich that money should be the least of their worries. Yet they risk reputation, the respect of their fellow citizens in the effort to get more.

ONE TROUBLE is that, in this country, such men do not run much risk of going to jail. That risk, if it existed, might improve the situation.

BUT FORTUNATELY, and nobody knows it better than President Coolidge, the richest men, which in our American competition means often the ablest men, are often absolutely honest.

In this administration you have the two extremes, Mr. Coolidge, President, is an absolutely poor

2 DEAD, NINE MISSING IN VERMONT FIRE

Rumor Only, Says Vanderlip

ACTED AS DUTY, SAYS BANKER

Vanderlip Admits He Had No Facts; Hoped to Clear Harding's Name

Washington, Feb. 15.—Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the City National Bank of New York, told the Senate Oil Committee today that he had no facts when he brought the name of President Harding into the oil scandal. He was called to explain his references to the sale of the Marion Star.

"I don't even know the price the paper sold at." Vanderlip said. "The current story was $550,000."

Chairman Lenroot questioned Vanderlip. The witness staid he prefaced his statement about the Star by saying, "There are rumors emanating from Washington becoming current throughout the United States deeply affecting the public mind."

HIS "PUBLIC DUTY."

His Ossining speech, asking for an inquiry into circumstances surrounding the sale of Mr. Harding's Marion Star, he said, was made because he thought it a "public duty" to call attention to current rumors so as to stop them.

He regarded the rumors, he said, as akin to the "whispering campaign" that marked the last month of the Harding campaign in 1920.

"I had full basis for what I said," he continued, "that there were current rumors."

"I had never heard any intimation that the money was paid for the star came from oil interests."

"I thought that my statement

Quaker City Police Use Batons Loaded With Tear Gas

Philadelphia, Feb. 15.—A police baton equipped with a chamber containing tear gas bombs will be tried out within a few days by Director of Public Safety Butler, who plans to arm the police with em for use in his war against vice and crime.

A baton recently perfected under the direction of Brigadier-General Amos Fries, chief of the army chemical warfare service, will be used in the experiment.

The chamber can be reloaded with extra charges carried by the the police and will enable one officer to subdue at least twenty men.

ARREST OF 18 WALKING TRACK STIRS PEABODY

Peabody, Feb. 15.—Two hundred citizens gathered at the Boston & Maine depot today and angrily protested the arrests of eighteen persons for walking on the railroad tracks.

Most of those arrested were patrons of the railroad and were taking the shortest cut from the depot to nearby mills where they are employed.

Oaths and threats were heaped on railroad special police, Shirley and Aitcheson, after they had rounded up the eighteen persons, locked them in the depot and taken them to police headquarters in patrol wagons.

When the defendants appeared before Judge Manning the courtroom quickly filled with citizens, still protesting and threatening to circulate a petition denouncing the action of the police and demanding that the Boston & Maine Railroad officials properly fence and otherwise improve the depot.

JOINS FIGHT ON FARE BOOST

Somerville Aldermen Decide to Go in With Other Cities for Reduction

An appropriation of $500, to be poled with money appropriated by other cities and towns in the fight against recent boosts in steam railroad fares, was authorized early today by the Somerville Aldermen, on recommendation by Mayor Webster.

The meeting of the board did not end until after midnight.

During the all-night session of the board, Alderman Paul O. Curtis introduced an order calling for the closing of all common victuallers' premises—including lunchrooms—from 1 a. m. to 5 a. m. Some of the lunchrooms, it was declared, have become lounging places for an unlawful element. The order was referred to the license committee.

The board also voted to resume the ringing of bell fire alarms on the first alarm, a practice that was halted on January 1. Many Somerville citizens have requested that the bell alarms be rung.

12 FIREMEN OVERCOME BY GAS

Two District Chiefs Among Those Felled Fighting $1000 Summer Street Blaze

A dozen firemen, including two district chiefs, were overcome by carbon monoxide gas, generated in a fire which broke out in a pile of waste paper in the basement of the Haynes building, High and Summer streets, today.

Thousands of early morning commuters coming into the South Station crowded the streets and watched the work of the firemen, which was rendered doubly spectacular by the fact that the firemen were forced to wear gas masks and enter the basement with life lines tied about their bodies.

Clouds of smoke pouring from the basement windows gave the first evidence of the fire. Seven fire companies and a rescue company were summoned and for half an hour the dense smoke and gas fumes prevented the firemen from reaching the seat of the fire.

District Chiefs Shallow and O'Brien entered the basement with oxygen masks and were overcome. They were later revived and refused to leave the scene.

Lieutenant Thomas Brown of Ladder Co. No. 8 was overcome and was removed to the Relief Hospital, where his condition is not regarded as serious.

Six members of one company, Engine No. 7, were overcome by the deadly gas, but managed to make their way to the street with the aid of other firemen. They were revived.

The paper, burning in the unventilated basement, was responsible for the generation of the gas, the firemen learned, when they finally reached the spot.

The loss amounted to $1,000.

In the presence of a Boston American reporter and a young man "subject," Dr. Dugdale completed his diagnosis and announced that the President would recover.

The picture had never come into

17 Injured in Montpelier Horror; Bodies of Victims Believed Cremated in Flames

Montpelier, Vt., Feb. 15.—Two persons are known to be dead, nine others are missing and probably dead, and eight others are in the hospital, as a result of a fire which swept the Lawrence building, a four-story business and apartment block on South Main street, today.

The victims were trapped in their beds as they slept, the flames spreading so quickly that escape by way of the stairs or fire escapes was shut off.

Two of the victims, a man and a woman, broke their necks when they leaped from the top floors of the building missing the life nets held by firemen on the street below.

These are the only bodies that are in the morgue. The burning building was the pyre for the others.

The ruins are so hot it will be hours before they can be searched for what little may remain of those who perished.

Bridgeport, Ct., Feb. 15.—Police declared today Harold Israel, ex-soldier, who came here a few weeks ago from Pettsville, Pa., has confessed he murdered Fr. Hubert Dahme, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, in Main street, on the night of February 4. Israel was arrested Monday in Norwalk and sentenced to jail for carrying concealed weapons.

would bring us the truth and kill those rumors."

"You thought it your public duty to broadcast rumors, which, if not true, were a reflection on the dead?" asked Lenroot.

"I thought it my patriotic duty to bring out the truth and thus scotch the rumors," was the reply.

"I was a lifelong friend of Mr. Harding. I wanted to clear his memory. That was my only purpose."

Questioned about his statement that the committee had not dared to push the questioning of Albert B. Fall, Vanderlip said it was an impression he got from the newspapers.

WON'T GIVE NAMES

"I would not care to say that," Vanderlip said, when asked for the names of persons who repeated the rumor to him. He said there were so many he could not remember all.

For days the committee has been working quietly on "tips" that Wall Street financiers sent a million dollars to a Washington bank to be used in making up stock gambling losses by federal officials. Expert accountants have been going over the books of brokers of Washington, New York and Cleveland.

What is believed to have let the cat out of the bag is the fear of certain financiers upon learning that the man who was authorized to distribute the slush fund cannot give a good accounting of $600,000. So far as is known, only $400,000 was distributed where it would do the most good.

Told by the accountants, however, that the brokers "have exposed generally in covering up deals connecting government officers," the committee decided to go to the source of the rumors and summoned several New York financiers.

Others who will be asked to appear include Otto Kahn, New York financier; Harry Payne Whitney, horse racer owner and a member of the syndicate which handled stock of the Mammoth Oil Company, a Sinclair subsidiary controlling Teapot Dome; Benjamin F. Yoakum, of the Cotton Belt Lines Railroad; officials of New York and Washington banks.

These men, however, were said by committee members not to be involved actively in the "slush fund" operations, which were declared to have been directed for the financiers and federal officials by a man who occupied enviable connections with the Harding administration.

BANKERS CALLED

E. L. Doheny also may be recalled. Harry F. Sinclair, for whom a subpoena still be waiting when he arrives in New York from Paris, will be questioned about the fund.

Although not in connection with the "slush money," committee members said they probably would want to question Colonel Robert W. Stewart of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, of which it has been testified, Sinclair sold $1,000,000 for chips on Teapot Dome.

Fall Is Accused of Plan to Lease Coal Lands

Washington, Feb. 15.—Former Secretary Fall and Secretary Denby were declared in a letter laid before President Coolidge today by John E. Ballaine, an Alaskan railroad constructor, to have entered into negotiations in July, 1921, for transfer and lease of the rich Matanuska coal reserves of Alaska, along the same lines as were later followed in the Teapot Dome oil lease.

The Alaskan coal lease was not executed, but the letter said the Navy Department, largely through the efforts of Rear Admiral J. K. Robison, had assiduously refused ever since to permit use of Alaskan coal by the navy.

WIDE PROBE OF SLUSH FUND ORDERED

Oil Probers to Find Out Who Got Money, as "Gifts of Gratitude"

Washington, Feb. 15.—Flooded for weeks with persistent reports of a vast "slush" fund sent from New York "to buy off high governmental officials," the Senate oil investigators today abandoned all secrecy and came out in the open to run the rumors to ground.

Briefly, the story of the "slush fund" is this:

High government officials, touching many that the lease scandal has not already smeared with oil, made "killings" on the stock market in steel about the time the steel rates in the last tariff act were being selected. The money thus made, they plunged in stock of an independent oil company, at whose head were said to be relatives of government officers, and lost—all the steel profits and thousands besides.

To cover these losses, certain New York financiers and oil men, interested in securing special favors from the government, pooled a million dollar fund and shipped it to a local bank, directing that the money be distributed as a "token of gratitude."

Lately the man who handled the distribution was called upon by the financiers to give an accounting as to where the money went. He could not give a satisfactory accounting of $600,000.

This fact is said to have incensed the financiers, and during an informal discussion in the Bankers' Club in New York one of the members of the "slush fund" syndicate minced no words in calling down wrath upon this man.

DAVID E. SPICER, burns on face and neck.

MRS. DAVID E. SPICER, burned.

The fire started in the boiler room of the four story brick building and trapped the occupants of the apartments on the third and fourth floors of the structure as they slept.

When firemen arrived a scene of horror confronted them.

ESCAPE CUT OFF

From windows on the third and fourth floors men, women and children were screaming for help.

Flames, leaping from the first and second floor windows had cut off their escape.

Every moment some person would leap to the streets in danger of death or fatal injuries.

The firemen swung life nets into action before even taking time to put up ladders.

One after another the victims leaped into the nets, but this work was handicapped by the dense clouds of smoke which rolled upward and surrounded the victims as they held to their perilous positions.

LEAPS BEYOND NET

Walter G. Washburn, an insurance agent, whose offices were on the floor beneath his apartment, appeared at a third floor window. He shouted for help and the life net was spread beneath the window.

With flames at his back, Washburn leaped into the cloud of smoke that enveloped him.

With a sickening thud, his body hit the concrete pavement, several feet from the edge of the life net. He struck on his head and died instantly of a broken neck.

Mrs. Emma Waterman, 58 years old, clinbed to the coping outside the fourth floor window. The flames were swirling on every side of her. Firemen placed a life net and called for her to jump.

ROARING FURNACE

Frantically, she leaped into the smoke. She, too, was dead when help reached her. She had missed the life net by many feet.

A number of those hurt sustained their injuries when they fell half in and half out the life nets.

In an incredibly short time the entire building, from basement to roof, was a roaring furnace. The firemen's work of rescue was over for those who had not been rescued with the aid of ladders and life nets were beyond all human aid.

In the freezing weather, survivors of the fire, many of them clad only in flimsy sleeping garments, ran hysterically about looking for their missing loved ones.

Their clothing all burned up, the survivors were in danger of death from exposure.

RED CROSS BUSY

The local Red Cross Chapter swung quickly into action. A relief station was opened near the scene of the fire and here warm clothing, blankets and steaming hot drinks were given to those who had escaped death's fiery hand by such a narrow margin.

Two whole families are believed to have perished in the flames. Walter G. Washburn is dead—it is almost certain his wife and infant child were cremated in the building. The same fate is believed to have befallen William Gilbourne, his wife and son.

If Gilbourne is dead he died a hero. One of the first aroused by the fire, instead of seeking his own safety, he ran through the halls of the burning building awakening the tenants. Many of the survivors declare they owe their lives to Gilbourne.

EXPLOSION THEORY

The Lawrence block adjoins the City Hall. It should be referred to in the past tense, for all that remains is a mass of ruins.

The first floor of the structure was occupied by Lee, Bros. Co., hardware dealers. T. W. Bailey & Co., wholesale grain dealers, and the Grand Union Tea Company.

The second floor was taken up with offices, which at night were unoccupied, while the third and fourth floors were given over entirely to apartments.

The building was owned by George L. Lemgard and today he estimated the total loss at $300,000 or more.

Preliminary investigation has led the authorities to believe the fire was caused by an explosion in the boiler room in the basement. Before it was discovered, however, it had gained such headway that the stairways leading to the upper floors were blocked and this is responsible for the heavy death list.

Many of the tenants aroused, made their way down the fire escapes, but within a few minutes these, too, were blocked and escape cut off.

4 BELOW ZERO

The burning feed in the Heck establishment sent up dense clouds of smoke and this was responsible for a number of deaths for it was equally hard for the firemen to locate the persons whose piteous calls for help they could plainly hear.

The intense cold—it was four degrees below zero—also handicapped the firemen and added to the horrors of the situation.

It was long after daylight before the fire was finally under control. Around the building were hundreds of sorrowing friends and relatives of those believed lost. They awaited only the cooling of the ruins before the tragic search was taken up to find some trace of those who perished.

It is doubtful if any trace of those who lost their lives in the building will ever be found. So complete was the destruction of the building and so terrific the heat that it is believed the victims were entirely cremated.

Claude N. Martin, one of those seriously injured in the fire and who is not expected to recover is local agent of the Montpelier and Wells River Railroad.

Ernest Waterman, who is among the missing, is a newspaperman and was formerly employed on the Springfield Union.

You May Be Rich, But Listen! You're Worth 98 Cents!

Canyon, Tex., Feb. 15.—The net material value of an average human being is 98 cents, according to analytical research made by Dr. C. A. Pierle, head of the department of chemistry at the West Texas Teachers' College.

Dr. Pierle found the body of a man weighing 150 pounds, if divided into its component chemical elements, would be found to contain enough water to wash a pair of blankets, enough iron to make a ten-penny nail, lime sufficient to whitewash a small chicken coop and enough sulphur to kill the fleas on a good-sized dog.

All these elements, he estimates, could be purchased at a drug store for 98 cents.

divorced him on November 21 last, naming Helen Moreno of th Follies.

He married Miss Luther in Greenwich, Ct., on December 6, during illness, during which she was his nurse.

Mr. Gallagher is now in Akron, Ohio, with a new contract, involving $250,000, by which he and Mr. Shean will play with the "Greenwich Village Follies." Miss Luther is occupying an apartment in the Hotel Vanderbilt.

$25,000 SETTLEMENT.

They are separated by approximately 1,000 miles and specifically by a solemnly signed and sealed separation agreement, by the rigid rules of which they are bound to go their separate ways, each without personal professional or temperamental interference from the other.

Finally, to bind the bargain, Mr. Gallagher separated himself from $25,000 in cash and has given it to his bride that she may not be handicapped financially by the parting.

The agreement dissolving the marriage contract between the couple was entered into at the same time that Mr. Gallagher effected a settlement of his contract with the Shubert's, which had been in the courts for two years.

When the Shuberts, who had won Gallagher and Shean from Florenz Ziegfeld, agreed to let the team of comedians join the Greenwich Village Follies last week, Mrs. Gallagher announced that she had a legal problem of her own to be cleared up.

AGREE TO DISAGREE.

Henry A. Uterhart, the lawyer, was called into consultation. Mr and Mrs. Gallagher admitted that they had come to the parting of the ways. They were quite unaffected by it, Mr. Uterhart said, adding:

"There was no other woman and no other man even suggested. To use a familiar expression, Mr. and Mrs. Gallagher agreed to disagree. They found that they could not get along well together and they decided that their marriage had been a mistake.

"Neither was emotional about the matter, but both were convinced that there was no hope for a reconciliation. No steps toward divorce have been taken as yet."

SPURNED COUNT WOULD CHALLENGE BOSTON DOCTOR TO DUEL

FEEL LIKE SLAPPING HIS FACE, SAYS D'ORANO

It's a lucky thing for Dr. Irving Perry Dodge, superintendent of the Commonwealth Avenue Hospital, that Boston, Mass., isn't Paris, France.

"In ten minutes," says Alphonze, the young Count D'Orano, who will be at the Copley-Plaza until Saturday, "I would have challenge M. the doctor to a duel!

"Perhaps we would say, 'But we do not fight the duel in my countree.' 'Say-ree well,' I would say, 'take that!' and pouf! I would slap his face on the boulevard."

Alphonze, the Count D'Orano, had just read in what are called the public prints a statement attributed to Dr. Dodge, to the effect that the physician had not raised his beautiful daughter Virginia to be the wife of any European nobleman.

RESENTS SLIGHT.

Having sojourned in Boston for two or three weeks, and having been seen in Miss Virginia Dodge's company on a number of occasions, the young French nobleman somehow got the notion that Dr. Dodge might have had him in mind when he made the statement.

The D'Orano eyes were shooting remarks of objection long before the D'Orano lips burst forth a veritable stream of protest.

"One would get the idea from what this chemist says," said the Count, "that I am of the class of these impoverished men of title who come to America to marry Miss Moneybags. Of a reality, I could buy this M. the Doctor three times over, and still have money in the bank.

DENIES MASQUERADE.

"I am not a M. Nobody, masquerading in America as M. Somebody. I am, indeed, Alphonze, the Count D'Orano, and any French citizen in Boston can tell you what that means. My home in Paris is at No. 5 in the rue Louis Boalle.

"There was a Marshal of France of our family in the time of Henry of Navarre and another under Louis XIII. We have a chateau on the Loire, and another in the Midi. That I should have a handy words like this, with a man who insults me even indirectly!

"My late father was for many years a member of the Chamber of Deputies, and I am hurrying home in a few weeks to direct the campaign of my brother for election as a Deputy.

NO AMERICAN BRIDE.

"If Dr. Dodge means to intimate that I forced myself upon his family in any way he is much in error. I would not make it any uglier. As a matter of fact, the young lady learned of my presence here and called me on the telephone.

"She is a nice girl, Miss Dodge, and until this outburst—attributed to her parent—I was proud of the acquaintance. But, marry? It is what you call foolish! I shall, of course, marry, for I am only 34, but when I marry it will be to a French girl.

"The American girl is nice, but as a rule she has had no brinking up. She is headstrong, silly, capricious. She has all the attributes of the rhum, the friend, the pal, but those are not the thing the Frenchman looks for in a wife. Only a fool of a Frenchman would marry any except a 'French girl.' The best wives, the best mothers in the world are those of France.

ABHORS CONTROVERSY.

"I am not going to have any controversy with the father of this young lady. In Paris, I would have challenge him, or I would have slap his face. I was a lieutenant of cavalry in the war. I was wounded. I was five times decorated, why should I bandy word with a Boston doctor?

"But, there, I shall not discuss this matter further. It is, after all, nothing to me. I never want to hear of it again. Please do not mention the name 'Dodge.'"

And the Count D'Orano, who looks as if he might be what the girls call a "swell dancer"—he is about five feet nine inches tall and weighs 135 pounds—talked of his coming trip to New York, Washington and Palm Beach.

Dr. Dodge had nothing to add to his already stated objections to international alliances. Virginia Katherine Dodge will marry a Yankee, and oil's well along the Potomac.

TNT IN ACTION IN SCHOOL BATTLE

Sound and Fury as Professor and Freshman Collide at Whitinsville

Whitinsville, Feb. 15.—Edward Richardson, a freshman in Northbridge High School, has something in his blood that acts like T.N.T. Professor Earl Collins, in the mathematics class, touched off this high-explosive when he reprimanded the freshy.

There was a flash, a rumble of crashing furniture, and the rest of the class took refuge in the hall. When the smoke cleared away inside it looked as if a draw between Professor Collins and Freshy Richardson.

Then twenty upper classmen, indignant at the action of a freshman, rushed in. There was still some of the T.N.T. in Richardson's veins. It took most of the twenty students to persuade him to take an icy shower, and when they succeeded a plumber had to be called to replace the bathroom fixtures.

Secret of Millionaire Fireman Revealed

WILLIAM T. BULL

"Buffalo Bill" Bull, Former Star Athlete of Yale, Ladderman in Providence

By BERT FORD

Providence, R. I., Feb. 15.—Meet William T. Bull, the millionaire fireman.

"Bill" is ladderman with Hook & Ladder No. 1, Central fire station, Providence. He is earning about $5 a day and is in his element. He says the job beats that of bank president. It's more to his liking.

He is the son of the late Dr. William T. Bull, celebrated cancer specialist of Newport and New York, and nephew of the late Congressman Melville Bull of Newport. Ladderman Bill drives to and from central fire station in his smart automobile, which he leaves in a garage. He looks snappy in uniform.

"DISCOVERED" IN HOSPITAL.

He managed to keep his identity secret four months, and, when his incog slipped off a few days ago, the whole fire department buzzed and is still buzzing.

The discovery caused "Bill's" first gloom since he became a fireman in October. He said he just wanted to be one of the gang. It was when Ladderman William Wall was injured by falling plaster at a fire and Bill Bull, or "Buffalo Bill" as some of the boys have christened him, hustled Wall to the hospital in the deputy chief's roadster that someone on the hospital staff recognized the begrimed ladderman as a scion of a swagger Newport family.

SOCIETY TONGUES WAG

That started society tongues wagging. Bill fears the hubbub may drive him from his paradise. He hopes not and so do his mates.

He has been a "spark" all his life. They call them "buffs" in New York. When he turned his back on the social whirl of New York and Newport after separation from his wife recently, he returned to his first love, the fire department. He had been living in Providence some months previous.

With his experience and splendid physique, the former Yale athlete made the Providence department in a walk. He is six feet in his socks, weighs 190, is broad-shouldered, and blonde. He has the features and set-up of a matinee idol, but is as bashful as he is democratic.

His wife was Leontine Curtis, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Wesley Peregoe of New York and granddaughter of John Whitney of Brooklyn. They were married in New Jersey in 1916.

Bill Bull besides being ladderman acts as chauffeur for Deputy Chief David A. Bigney.

HAS BASEBALL FEVER.

In addition to discovery of his identity there is another fly in Bill's ointment just now. He has the spring baseball fever.

"I used to go to the baseball training camps every year," said the debonair ladderman, fastening the collar of his blueflannel shirt. "Did it at my own expense, you know, just to be with the players and would play on the second team. Usually played at first or catcher. Played semi-pro football, too. I like tennis and all outdoor sports, but fires are my chief pastime.

"Nine days after I joined the force here we had a four-bagger. Our company carries an eighty-five-foot ladder, ten feet longer than any thing else in the city. Four feet of it was burned off at the big blaze. I've always enjoyed being mixed up with firemen. My aunt in New York thinks I am with Rickenbacker in the automobile business. But this is a he-man's job. Keeps a fellow fit."

Bill's mates are rooting to make him fire marshal of Providence.

ARREST MAN TRYING TO SEE GEN. BUTLER

Philadelphia, Feb. 15.—A man who gave his name as Maurice Fincken was arrested today as he was about to enter the home of Major-General Smedley D. Butler, Director of Public Safety.

Three policemen, on a tip from a taxi driver, reached the house just as the man rushed up the steps from another taxi and threw him to the ground. He declared he wanted to see Butler "about an assault" made on him several weeks ago. He was not armed. According to his father, Fincken had been ill for some time and had been gassed in the war. He is being held for observation.

GIRL GETS BACK $1600 VIOLIN

Marjorie Posselt Happy Over Return of Instrument She Prizes More Than Love

"This is closer to my heart than any man will ever get," declared Marjorie Posselt excitedly—and it was apparent that Marjorie meant it.

She stood in the Bertillon room at Police Headquarters, hugging the $1,600 violin stolen from her a number of days ago and recovered by Boston police inspectors from a Malden musician, who had paid $15 for it.

Although it was morning, she was clad in an evening gown, for she was to play at 1 o'clock at a concert. She had been heart-broken at the thought that she would not have her 200-year-old instrument, but now her despair had turned to joy. Never again, she said, would she allow the violin out of her sight.

STOLEN FROM AUTO.

Marjorie Posselt is young and an accomplished musician. She has a sister, but half her age, little Ruth Posselt, who has astounded critics in New York and Boston by rendering finished classical recitals with her violin.

A violin—especially this old violin made by the old master, Carl Bergonzi, in 1733—means more to them than a garage full of automobiles means to an ordinary mortal.

Therefore, when Marjorie came out of a downtown hotel and discovered that her automobile and the violin, the latter owned by her teacher, Andrew Ondricken of Gainsboro street, had disappeared, she was heart-broken.

Last night she told her story to Police Inspectors Dorsey and Augusta. They scurried around and finally made tracks for Malden Auditorium in Malden, where Max Stockman of Revere, a member of the orchestra, informed the police that he had bought the violin for $15 from a man who also offered him the automobile.

Today Miss Posselt was handed her treasured violin by the inspectors and she immediatey raced down to call on Gustav Gustafson, in charge of the Bertillon room. He is a friend of her family and also is an authority on old violins.

FIRST IN HER HEART.

He pronounced the instrument a real treasure and called her a lucky girl for having recovered it. "But I suppose," he said in a jocular vein, "you would trade that now for a beau that you could marry."

Marjorie shook her head vigorously and hugged the fiddle close. "This is closer to my heart than any man will ever get," she declared.

"No boy, man or money can come between me and the violin."

GIRL AND VIOLIN SHE PRIZES ABOVE LOVE

MARJORIE POSSELT

Young musician who was made happy when quick police work won back her $1,600 violin after it had been stolen from an auto. The instrument was sold to a Malden man for $15. The charming owner of the violin says it is "closer to her heart than any man will ever get." Experts say the violin is an old masterpiece.

BANDIT ORDERS VICTIM TO WAIT ON CUSTOMER

Robs Providence Gas Station, but Insists That "Business Proceed as Usual"

Providence, Feb. 15.—Just as an armed bandit finished robbing a gas station manager shortly after midnight today, a customer drove up. The bandit turned to his victim and said:

"Wait on this bird and don't make a peep about me or I'll shoot you both!"

While George De Luca, the gas attendant, obeyed, the bandit vanished out a rear door.

The customer, John Malley of No. 44 Pleasant street, was unaware of the robbery until he had been supplied with fuel and De Luca had made sure the bandit was gone.

The robbery occurred at the Station of the Sterling Service Oil Company, Smith and Common streets.

The cash register was rifled of $45. The bandit wore a white mask.

Scarlet Fever Fills Hospitals

Providence, R. I., Feb. 15 (I. N. S.).—To make room for scarlet fever patients, 150 tuberculosis sufferers were today ordered transferred from the City Hospital in East Providence to the sanatorium at Wallum Lake, Burrillville. More than 200 persons have been stricken with scarlet fever in this city.

BIG SCHOOL LEVELLED BY FIRE

Explosion Starts Blaze That Destroys 15-Room Building in Warwick, R. I.

Providence, Feb. 15.—Fire early today destroyed the Warwick High School, a fifteen-room brick structure on the Post road in Apponaug. It is estimated the loss will be more than $200,000.

An explosion heard on the third floor, believed to have been in the chemical laboratory, is thought to have been the cause of the fire.

One explosion was heard by nearby residents shortly before flames were seen coming from the building and another was heard after the arrival of the company.

Fire departments from Warwick, East Greenwich, Coventry, West Warwick and the Fawtucket department from Cranston were called, but the flames had gained such headway before their arrival that they extended their efforts toward preventing the spread of the flames to several nearby houses.

ORPHAN OF SIX IS KICKED TO DEATH

Slayer Vanished, Then Returned and Confessed He Committed Crime

Youngstown, O., Feb. 15.—Joseph C. Kane, 40, today has confessed, according to police, that he murdered six-year-old Paul Prologo in a city park Wednesday afternoon by kicking him to death.

Kane, who disappeared after the murder, surrendered. He denied any complicity in the murder at first, police say, but when searchers found blood stains on his underwear and a bloodstained handkerchief belonging to him he broke down and confessed the crime, according to the detectives.

Kane told of having taken the boy out, resisting police say, and of having him crush and a pencil key to free the clinch.

The boy had been adopted from an orphanage only a month ago by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Prologo, whose ten-year-old son died recently. Kane had taken an interest in the boy after his adoption.

MILITARY RULE IN GERMANY IS OVER

General Von Seeckt Resigns and Turns Powers Back to President Ebert

By M. ARTHUR JORDAN.

Berlin, Feb. 12 (Universal Wire-lease)—General Hans Von Seeckt, military dictator of Germany, to whom President Ebert ceded all executive powers during the dark days of last November when dissolution seemed near, has abdicated as dictator and returned his powers to the President.

The state of siege under which General Von Seeckt ruled will be ended with this month. He will remain as head of the Reichswehr.

Considerable excitement is brewing in Bavaria as the Hitler-Ludendorff treason trial nears. There are sporadic riots of peasants, who object to the new drastic taxes.

Chancellor Marx is working out special measures which will aid the civil authorities to cope with any new revolts.

man, money has never interested him. He never in his life, probably, had as much as the people now pay him for one year's work in the White House.

Mr. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, is said to be the second richest man in the United States. John D. Rockefeller, presumably being the richest.

MR. COOLIDGE, with no fortune, could not be bought with all the money that there is in the United States, everybody knows it.

Mr. Mellon, certainly worth five hundred millions, and managing the people's finances instead of attending to his own business, could not be influenced by five hundred or a thousand millions more.

WE HAVE all sorts of honest men, luckily, rich and poor, but it seems harder for the rich man to stay honest than for the poor man. Perhaps that is because getting money becomes the rich man's game. It isn't so much that he cheats to get more money, but rather that he cheats to win the game.

IF MR. MELLON would like to earn a few honest extra dollars when his term at Washington is up, he might communicate with the King of Spain.

That Spanish king, praising the wonderful financial management of the United States, cutting hundreds of millions from the national debt each year, was told by our ambassador, Mr. Moore, that the work was done by Mr. Mellon. "How much does your country pay that Mr. Mellon?" asked the King. "About twelve thousand a year is what he gets, Your Majesty," Mr. Moore replied.

"Tell him to come over here," said the King, "we'd be glad to pay him twelve million dollars a year, although Spain isn't a rich country, if he could do for us what he is doing for your people."

GOOD NEWS comes from Mr. Hughes, Secretary of State. He says that certain legislation excluding the Japanese, discriminating against them, is a violation of our treaty with Japan and would "undo the results of the Washington conference."

That would be welcome "undoing." At that conference European statesmen, especially the suave Lord Balfour, twisted our little amateur politician-statesmen around their fingers. This country was persuaded to junk brand new battleships costing forty millions each. And we were persuaded also to guarantee peace in the Pacific, guaranteeing to England, Japan and France peaceful possession of property taken from Germany.

If those nations choose to fight each other every few years, rob each other when each war is over, let them. But why should we make ourselves an insurance company to under-write their looting?

'BABS' LA MARR PROMISED A CLEAN SLATE

Roth Defence Shows That Her Movie Contract Has "Free From Scandal" Clause

Los Angeles, Feb. 15.—Barbara La Marr, film star, is under contract with her motion picture producer to keep herself "free from scandal," it was revealed by Arthur Sawyer, her manager, in the trial of Herman Roth, Hollywood attorney, charged with extorting funds from Sawyer.

Barbara La Marr.

It is charged by Miss La Marr and her manager that Roth used an unfiled amended divorce complaint as a club to extract money from them.

The contract, as read by Roth attorneys, stated the star agreed to "keep herself clear from any unpleasant occurrence and publicity." Sawyer testified that Roth wanted $25,000 to suppress a scandalous court action against Miss La Marr.

Miss La Marr testified how she loved and married Fill Ainsworth, now serving a sentence in San Quentin penitentiary, California, for passing bad checks. She divorced him when the law claimed him, and eight months later married Ben Deeley, vaudeville dancer.

"I thought the decree I got from Phil was final," she told the court between sobs, when asked if she married her present husband, Jack Daugherty, without awaiting sufficient time to elapse.

Venice—Another step toward the canonization of the late Pope Pius X was taken at a meeting presided over by the Patriarch La Fontaine, at which forty witnesses were cited by the Vice-Postulator of Beatification.

Stop Colds

In this Old-Fashioned Way

Try making your hot lemonade this way and see how delicious the flavor is.

Hot Lemonade

Slice a whole California lemon crosswise into thin slices (including skin). Place slices in bowl and pour boiling water over them. Allow to stand a few minutes. Pour off lemonade. Cool by dilution, only enough to permit drinking.

COLDS are easy to stop if you take the proper precaution soon enough.

When you start to sneeze or are aware of a chill coming on, drink a good, old-fashioned hot lemonade. Drink it as hot as you can stand it.

Then take a warm bath immediately and go right to bed under plenty of warm covers. See how much better you feel in the morning.

The effectiveness of hot lemonade in the prevention or treatment of a cold is due to more than its heat.

Millions of people used this effective "old-fashioned way" during the influenza epidemics with great success, and now they always take hot lemonade to stop a cold.

Their experience is valuable to you. Ward off that impending cold in this pleasant, healthful way, that so many others use.

Children should have hot lemonade after play in the cold out-of-doors. If their feet are wet from snow, beware a cold. Let them drink a real, old-fashioned hot lemonade at once.

California lemons make the best lemonade. They are practically seedless, tart and heavy with acid juice. Buy them at any first-class store. Try the "hot lemonade way" tonight.

15 OVERCOME IN 4-ALARM BLAZE

Damage in South End Tenement House Fire $75,000

Three firemen and a dozen women were overcome by smoke and scores were rescued in a four-story tenement at No. 33 Albion street, South End, and caused heavy damage to the four-story tenement at No. 424 Tremont street. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

At the height of the excitement, a shell shocked World War veteran, unable to stand the nervous strain, attempted to take his life with a revolver. Police wrested the weapon from him.

Among those overcome by smoke are:

William Hammond of the Protective Department and a woman he was carrying from the building.

Albert Fox, No. 83 Albion street, and a child, Cleo Yassemidis, he was rescuing from the Albion street building.

Bessie Kyron, nine years old, Albion street building, taken to the Boston Dispensary for burns.

Marion Hocking, six years old, Albion street, taken to the Boston Dispensary.

Mrs. Eva A. Gellados, No. 65 Compton street, visiting in the Albion street building, cut by glass. She is at the City Hospital.

Fireman Sullivan, Frazier and Morris were overcome in the buildings and rescued by fellow firemen.

The fire was discovered by Patrolmen McCarthy and Joyce, who had gone to Albion street in plain clothes to make a liquor raid.

McCarthy ran to give the alarm, while Joyce ran into the Albion street building to warn the occupants. He carried out two women and three children, overcome by smoke, before the firemen arrived.

A moment later, William Hammond of the Protective Department, discovered that the Tremont street building, occupied on the first floor by Walton's lunch, was afire. Sergeant Winn and Patrolman Banks assisted him in getting forty-eight persons from the upper stories of the building.

Despite the fact that many firemen were attending the Firemen's Ball, the firemen were enabled, by the working of the two-platoon system, to go to the conflagration with full complements of men without delay.

Mrs. Ada Hocking and daughter, Marion; Mrs. May Seley; Mrs. Theodore Rolocanno and six children; Mrs. Blanche Hawkins and [illegible] dren; Mrs. Clara King, a Mrs. Miller impeded rescue work. In one of these explosions Ariadne J. Devonroules fell through a wrecked floor.

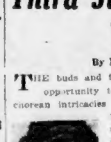
Third Junior Supper Dance Will Be Held Tonight, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN



Lucy Carnegie

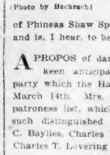
THE buds and their cavaliers will have ample opportunity to embellish their latest terpsichorean intricacies until the wee sma' hours, for tonight comes the third junior supper dance of the season at the Copley-Plaza.

These affairs—they are primarily for the debs and girls who've been out a year or two—are quite as hugely enjoyed as the senior supper dances, after which they are patterned.

On the junior committee is Miss Lucy Carnegie, a bud of last Winter. She is the fiance of Phineas Shaw Sprague of Commonwealth Avenue, and is, I hear, to be of the Spring bridal procession.

APROPOS of dancing affairs, there is the usual keen anticipation over the annual costume party which the Hasty Pudding Club is holding on March 14th. Mrs. A. Lawrence Lowell heads the patroness list, which is replete with the names of such distinguished matrons as Mesdames Walter C. Baylies, Charles B. Barnes, Henry Sturgis Grew, Charles T. Lovering Jr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Mandell.



Ella Snelling

FASCINATING Cairo, teeming with its old-world mysteries, is the place which Miss Ella Snelling has selected as headquarters during her travels in the Nile Country.

Miss Snelling—the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodman P. Snelling of Commonwealth Avenue—is making the trip with her close "pal", Miss Mary Weld, and the latter's mother, Mrs. Charles G. Weld.

The party plans to visit a number of continental countries before returning home early in the Summer.

A NUMBER of Boston girls are going on to Gotham for the Milton Academy Girls' Alumnae Association luncheon, which is to be held on Saturday, March 8th, at Mrs. Franklin S. Parker Jr.'s apartment, No. 178 East 79th Street.

Mrs. Parker was formerly Miss Eleanor H. Perkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Handasyd Perkins (Katrine Coolidge) who now mak their home in Greenwich, Conn., though they keep up their many Boston connections. Miss Perkins was married to Mr. Parker at Greenwich two Summers ago.

I UNDERSTAND that following next Thursday's ceremonial, which will transform Miss Katherine Abbott into the bride of George Batchelder Jr., the young people are to sail for Europe. They plan to return to these shores in the Summer, when they will make their home at Manchester-by-the-Sea.

The Batchelder-Abbott wedding which will take place in Trinity Church at 5 o'clock stands out as one of the most important—if no, the most important—nuptial event of the season.

Von Wiegand Complimented for Securing Release of Griffis From Prison

New York, Feb. 15.—State Commander William Tapley, V. F. W., who, at the head of a detachment of decorated members of his organization, led the escort to Lieutenant Corliss Hooven Griffis on the latter's arrival in this city Monday, was generous in his praise of the achievement of Karl H. Von Wiegand, the Hearst Berlin correspondent, who accomplished Griffis' release from German prison.

Commander Tapley said:

"Mr. Von Wiegand accomplished remarkable feat when he got Griff out of the Mosbach Prison after other efforts had failed.

"The release of Griffis is only another proof that William Randolph Hearst is heart and soul with the veterans."

LOUISE LAWSON LEFT ESTATE OF $30,000

Slayers of New York Beauty Failed to Get Jewels or Bonds

New York, Feb. 15.—The estate left by Louise Lawson, Texas music student murdered by robbers last Friday, has been estimated at $30,000. B. M. T. bonds worth $10,000, jewels valued at $18,000 and $2,000 in furniture are the principal assets.

The bonds were in a broker's safe. The jewels, which the bandits expected to find in the apartment along with $10,000 in gems that they did get, were being reconstructed by a jeweler.

In their attempts to find a tangible clew to the identity of the men who entered the girl's apartments under the guise of bootleggers with liquor, police have centered their efforts on a search for a woman "spotter" who is thought to have paved the way for the social looters by gaining access to wealthy circles and becoming friendly with women who wore valuable jewels.

Almost identical methods used by two crooks in jewel robberies here during the last year, two of which ended in the murder of the victims, has convinced the authorities that this woman, a sophisticated frequenter of the white light cafes, makes it a business of identifying women possessing valuable jewels and giving the actual robbers their addresses.

It is not believed murder was intended in either the "Dot" King or Louise Lawson cases, nor that the woman "spotter" had any actual connection with the robberies.

Among other women victims of the gang are believed to be Avonne Taylor, a chorus girl, robbed of $15,000 worth of gems last August; Mrs. Charlotte Palmer and Mrs. Hugo Schoellkopf. Delivery of a package, which was the ruse used in the "Dot" King and Louise Lawson murder-robbery cases, also was employed in others.

FARMERS' PLIGHT LAID TO GOVT. BY JOHNSON

Charleston, Ill., Feb. 15.—The government is responsible for the plight of the farmer and must itself seek to remedy a part of its wrong, declared Senator Hiram Johnson of California.

Low prices, united with high cost of operation, are throttling agriculture, he asserted. "The farmer has the right to ask his government for protection. He is entitled to the same generosity the government extends to manufacturers and railroads. If governmental action can bring him relative prices between the commodities he produces and those he has to purchase, he should have it."

The echo of a "midling sized Bell"

The directors of the Massachusetts Bank voted, on April 24, 1784:

"Agreed that it will be useful to have a midling sized Bell at the bank in case of fire or an attempt to rob the Bank, and that Mr. Russels and Mr. Breck be desired to procure one."

AND the 'midling sized Bell' was duly procured.

It has gone now. But above the clangor of modern business in downtown Boston its echo sounds today. There are some 13,532 safe deposit boxes in the main and branch offices of this bank—more, incidentally, than in any other bank in New England—and more at low-rental fees.

In those boxes rest uncounted millions in securities, of the 77,000 customers of the bank, and their diversified family keepsakes. Everything is there from a lock of hair, and a treasured brooch, to the bonds, stocks and deeds of trust to a great fortune. Probably the most impressive composite document of the history and progress of a great community is guarded in our safe deposit vaults.

To be sure, it is under modern fire-proof and tamper-proof protective machinery, superhuman in its vigilance and strength. But this great treasure might not be there in 1924 if the directors, one day, back in 1784, had not bought a 'midling sized Bell.'

ONE hundred and forty years of being FIRST in safekeeping is your assurance that you may confidently ask the bank to put your valuables under the protection of the 'midling sized Bell.' You can rent a box at any of our offices for a nominal sum.

DEBATE LOCAL OPTION FOR WALES

Bill Sponsored by Lloyd George Comes Up for Settlement in Commons

London, Feb. 15 (I.N.S.).—A local option drink measure for Wales was called up for debate in the House of Commons today. It is supported by former Premier David Lloyd George.

From indications Premier MacDonald intends to fight the Popular employment dole issue to a finish. He is supporting the decision to increase the unemployment allotment to Popular above the authorized amount, and has notified the members of Commons he would stand pat.

The next development is to ascertain whether defeat of the Popular measure by Commons should be construed as a vote of censure. If so, it would require the resignation of the Labor government.

Curiosity has been aroused over a communication from Arthur Ponsonby, M. P., Under Foreign Secretary, denying that the Labor government has any intention of ceding Jamaica or any other territory to any foreign power.

This communication was in answer to a question based upon a report printed in Paris that the United States might take over the French war debt to Great Britain as one other country would cede Jamaica to America.

The indisposition from which Premier MacDonald is suffering is neuritis, according to statements today. This is accompanied in some degree by insomnia, with the result that he is very tired. It is said, however, that his condition is not serious.

MacDonald a Dry, Says "Pussyfoot" Johnson

Newport, R. I. Feb 15—England is scrubbing onto the water wagon. "Pussyfoot" Johnson, "prophet of the dry era," has just returned from the land of pubs and ale houses with this declaration.

"England has elected a Parliament overwhelmingly committed to the policy of local option," he said, speaking at the United Congregational Church. "Ramsey MacDonald, British Premier, is as dry as I am."

QUIZ WOMEN IN JAIL DELIVERY ATTEMPT

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 15.—Police are pinning their hope of uncovering the ring involved in the conspiracy to effect a general jail delivery at the Western Penitentiary here on the arrest of four persons, two of them young women and two men, both former convicts.

Officials expressed belief that the women were the "go-betweens" who carried information between the convicts who rioted, killing two prison guards, and the men who smuggled the arms and dynamite inside the prison walls. The two men, they say, had a prominent part in getting the guns and explosives to the rioters.

3,000 DEDICATE KLAN HOME IN PORTLAND

Portland, Me., Feb. 15.—More than 1,000 Klansmen from all parts of the State, as well as a delegation from other New England cities, attended the dedication of the new Klan home on Forest avenue by the local Klavern. The Klansmen wore white robes and hoods. The principal address was by F. Eugene Farnsworth, king kleagle for Maine. Preceding the ceremony there was a concert by the Klan band of thirty five pieces. Later a "naturalization" ceremony was held, at which 200 candidates were initiated.

FRENCHMAN IS TWICE SENTENCED TO DIE

Laon, France, Feb. 15.—Raoul Marchand, twenty, has just been convicted of murder and sentenced to death for the second time, a case which is believed to be unique in French justice.

He was condemned first in August for the slaying of a young girl. While awaiting the outcome of a plea for a respite from President Millerand, Marchand foiled a prison attendant with a chair in an attempt to escape. The attendant died the next day. Marchand was again tried, found guilty and sentenced to death.

Man Picks Up Wrong Bag, Finds It Full of Jewelry

Morris Mindes, proprietor of a tailor shop at No. 6 Hemenway street, Back Bay, put down his bag at Eglesion square to light a cigarette. When he reached the shop he discovered the bag he carried was not his own. He had picked up another containing twenty-six invalidiers and some gold watch chains. Mindes turned over his "good swag" to the Back Bay police. Now he'd like to have his own bag returned.

AUSTRIAN SHOWS PSYCHIC PHENOMENA

Vienna, Feb. 15.—Professor Pripam of Vienna University is said to have produced before an audience of forty professors all the phenomena attributed to the celebrated spiritualistic mediums, Willy and Rudy Schneider.

Professor Pripram not only used natural means entirely in his exhibition, it is declared, but later explained to his audience how the various effects were produced.

TROOPS LEAVE HERRIN; FEAR NEW CLASH

All but One Battalion of Soldiers Is Withdrawn From the Scene of Klan War

Marion, Ill., Feb. 15.—Withdrawal of troops from Williamson County, where they were sent after a clash between dry Ku Klux Klan and wet anti-Klan factions last Friday, leaves the neutral element of the citizenry to work out their plans for establishing an orderly control of affairs. With the exception of one battalion of the 130th Infantry, all military forces will leave Herrin today and a number of units depart from Marion and other points where they have been stationed this week.

Although the non-partisan committee of influential citizens which is working to restore peace has received assurances of support from all sides, many persons fear the soon as the troops leave trouble will break out afresh.

The feud between the factions, they say, is too deep to disappear so soon.

ARRESTS REACH 1,600 IN ST. LOUIS CRUSADE

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 15.—The police clean-up drive, started Monday, has resulted in the arrest of more than 1,600 persons, with a new record of 670, apprehended within the last twenty-four hours. Twenty six saloons, dives and resorts have been raided. Only one robbery was reported today.

NOYES TO BAN AUTO PARKING IN STREETS

Announces Drastic Move to Relieve Congestion in "Downtown" Boston

Drastic measures including a ban on parking of autos in streets of the down-town sections of Boston to relieve traffic congestion were announced by John H. Noyes, chairman of the Board of Street Commissioners at the annual meeting and banquet of the Massachusets Highway Association in the City Club.

"Our hope lies in the co-operation of our citizens and those of surrounding cities and towns to attempt to solve the traffic problem by using the city streets as little as possible for garages," he said.

TAXPAYERS' BURDEN.

As the expenses of the city are paid from taxation," said Chairman Noyes," the constant demolition of assessable property to make room for streets has its well defined limit and it is a serious question as to whether or not we have reached the saturation point."

He pointed out that because of the large district in the downtown section of the city that is cut up by narrow, crooked or curving streets, the plan for expanding and straightening these thoroughfares would result in more street area than building area.

A solution he said was offered in this proposal for arcade streets, which would provide larger avenues without seriously disturbing assessable real estate.

IN MARKET DISTRICT.

Another solution, Noyes said, would be removal to the outskirts of the city of the section devoted to the wholesale receipt and distribution of provisions and fruits now centered about Faneuil Hall.

Mr. Noyes promised that at an early date he would put into effect a program for abolition of all unnecessary parking in the downtown section.

MOONSHINE KNOCKS OUT JOE WALCOTT

Joe Walcott, once champion welterweight prize fighter, now broken in health, told a jury in Superior Court that he was drunk when arrested on a charge of carrying a loaded revolver, which the police say he discharged several times in South End after a row with a woman. Walcott said he drank about a quart and a half of moonshine that night, that it had been going on for six months and when asked if he ever exceeded that quantity, admitted he took a half pint to bed with him every night.

TWO BROTHERS FIGHT DUEL; EACH DIES

Four Shots Fired, and Death Ends Enmity Over Their Father's Estate

Whitesburg, Ky., Feb. 15.—Bob and Sam Bates, brothers, residents of the troublesome Creek section, in-volved .45-calibre law to settle their quarrel, and today both are dead.

Enmity between the brothers was said to have resulted from a disagreement concerning settlement of an estate, including some valuable coal and timber lands, left by their father. Finally, after friends had prevented gunplay on more than one occasion, Sam, a boy of seventeen, was said to have sent word to Bob that he would give him $100 to come into the vicinity of the younger brother's residence.

Bob accepted the offer.

The brothers met on a Laurel-fringed mountain trail. They drew, fired—missed. Now the sights were perfectly aligned. A second roar from the heavy weapons and both duelists dropped, fatally wounded.

A shred of blue powder smoke drifted momentarily over the laurels. "Ole Troublesome" Bob Bates won $100 he couldn't collect, and Sam had lost $100 he wouldn't have to pay.

A third Bates brother, Uriah, is serving a life sentence in State Prison for the murder of Elijah Sergent, who was slain near his home on Indian Creek in 1920. Bob was under indictment in connection with the Sergent slaying and was to have been tried in April.

Spurns Big Salary

Mrs. ALEXANDER MONTGOMERY

Former Gladys Taylor of Wellesley, who gave up charge of Roger Babson's Washington Bureau to wed. "I love my man more than my job," she wrote statistician.

DISCARDS BIG SALARY FOR CUPID'S CALL

Pity poor Roger W. Babson. He has the worst luck with high salaried women. Pays them a fortune, and then they up and leave him.

"Cupid comes along," explodes the famous statistician," and they scorn me. Love means more to a girl than a fat pay envelope—and I'll be darned if I can see it."

First it was Bessie Parker, and now it's Gladys Taylor. Miss Parker was Babson's private secretary, and he paid her $13,000 a year. She married Elroy Powers, whose salary wasn't a sixth of her own, and settled down in a little house in Norwood. Now she has a baby.

Miss Taylor was in charge of Babson's Washington office, and rated a salary over $10,000 and almost as high as that of Miss Parker. She is the daughter of Charles N. Taylor, of Wellesley, millionaire bank president and realty man. She was graduated from Wellesley College in 1919, and immediately took charge of the Washington bureau.

Accordingly Miss Taylor was put on the payroll for a goodly sum, and Mr. Babson concluded his troubles with lovelorn girls were over for awhile.

But along came Alexander Montgomery, brilliant Washington correspondent of the New York Herald, and prominent in the social life of the capital.

It was a whirlwind romance, and Gladys kissed her pay envelope boodbye.

"I love my man more than my job," she wrote Mr. Babson.

SOMERVILLE GIRL HIT, AUTOIST FLEES

Miss Jennie Musgrove of No. 28 Maple avenue, Somerville, is at Somerville Hospital, suffering from a possible fracture of the left hip and thigh and numerous abrasions of the body, received when she was struck by an automobile while alighting from a street car at Broadway and Pumps street, Somerville. The autoist, according to the police, fled, a-ward West Somerville.

DISABLED U. S. SHIP TOWED TO HALIFAX

Halifax, N. S., Feb. 15 (I.N.S.)—Two Atlantic transport line steamers were nearing Halifax today, one in tow of the other. The Montana, bound for New York to Antwerp, was rendered helpless by a disabled steering gear and was picked up by the Poland, bound from New York to Harrsburg.

The vessels are expected here Saturday. The Montana will make repairs here.

HUNDREDS HELD UP BY PASSPORT TANGLE

Calexico, Cal., Feb. 15.—Traffic between here and Mexicali, across the international line, is in confusion, through a misunderstanding between American and Mexican immigration officials over passports. Hundreds of Americans and Mexicans on either side of the line were turned back when they attempted to cross. American immigration officials started by turning back 150 Mexicans employed on American soil when they failed to show passports or head tax receipts. Mexican authorities retaliated by refusing admission to any American who had less than $100 on his person.

Notice!

Bobber quality

Whenever you buy a garment with the label "Bobber" you may be sure of these three things: (1) that it was made of Botany flannel, which is the best grade of flannel on the market, and all-wool. (2) that the tailoring is good tailoring, and by that we mean that every inch of the garment is carefully cut and finished, that there is no skimping anywhere. (3) it means that the style is a style misses want at the present time. Bobber styles include those all-important details—gauntlet cuffs, circular skirts, lace-edge linen collars.

Israel Admits He Was in Movie Near Bridgeport Murder Scene

Bridgeport, Ct., Feb. 15.—The presence of only four bullets in the five-chambered .32-calibre revolver found upon an alleged vagrant may lead to the apprehension of the murderer of Father Hubert Dahme, late pastor of St. Joseph's Church.

Harold Israel

Father Dahme was shot down on one of the streets of Bridgeport on the night of Monday, February 4. On Monday night, one week later, a Norwalk policeman arrested a young man who describes himself as Harold Israel, twenty-three, of Pottsville, Pa., recently discharged from the United States army and claiming to be of Pennsylvania Dutch descent. Israel, the policeman says, was dodging in and out among the trees along the sidewalk.

Discovery that it was a .32-calibre bullet that killed Father Dahme led Bridgeport detectives to visit Norwalk Jail and Israel has been brought to this city. He admits his presence in Bridgeport on the night of the murder, explaining that he was stopping at a rooming house here. At the time of the killing he claims to have been in a motion picture theatre not far from the scene of the crime. Among his effects the police have found a collection of obscene poetry, some of it describing the imaginary experiences of a priest.

Norwalk fined the alleged vagrant $50 and sentenced him to 30 days in jail. The Bridgeport authorities expect to tag him with the charge of murder in the first degree.

I met a Man on the Street the other day & this is what he said—

"Riley, I don't like your advertising. It looks cheap. You'll never get me into your store with that kind of stuff."

I was not particularly surprised, because I am no writer and neither am I an artist. I do not wear long, flowing hair and neither do I wear a flowing black necktie.

But I told him that I simply bought space in various newspapers to express my heartfelt opinion to the public—to think out loud, as it were. I cannot help it if I do not use the best of English—I do not regret that I don't use wonderful, expressive illustrations to work night and day to figure out ways to give the public the best clothing values ever offered—and I'm doing it!

My job is not advertising. My job is to work night and day to figure out ways to give the And I have confidence enough in the good sense of the men of Boston to know that they will sacrifice whatever pleasure they might get out of looking at pleasing illustrations and enticing language for honest frankness, sincerity and real clothing values!

The man came to my shop with me, purchased a suit and overcoat and said that never again would he judge a shop or its merchandise by its advertising.

If you are like that man—if you think that simply because my prices are low and I do not use expensive illustrations that my merchandise is cheap—just visit me. You'll change your mind immediately.

FLORAL SHOWER GREETS ARMY IN MEXICO

Obregon Troops Pelted With Blossoms as They Enter City of Guadalajara

Mexico City, Feb. 15 (A.P.).—The War Department announces that Federal troops under General Obregon entered Guadalajara amid a shower of flowers. Guadalajara has been one of the most important rebel strongholds on the western front.

General Escobar, although wounded, has ordered an immediate advance against Morelia, where the rebel generals, Estrada and Deguer, are reported to have concentrated their forces. Specials say that the two rebel leaders, following the rebel reverses at Palo Verde Wednesday, joined forces at Paninditeuaro and marched upon Morelia with six hundred men.

Railway headquarters report that Tuxpan has been occupied by Federal forces. Official confirmation is impossible on account of the crippled telegraphic facilities.

Vera Cruz, chief port of the state of Vera Cruz, has been declared the provisional capital of the state until Jalapa, the real capital, is captured.

Rehabilitated War Vet Is Seeking Employment

An electrician—a rehabilitated veteran of the World War—is open for employment. Before the war, while still a boy, he gained practical experience as an electrician's helper. After the war, when he was restored to health, he served three years in training as an electrician.

This young man is good on the wiring of home and similar buildings.

He is thoroughly familiar with outlet and conduit work.

In addition to these qualifications, he is conscientious and is married and the father of a child. Also, he is twenty-five years of age, and lives in Boston.

His qualifications fit him and he is recommended for an electrician's helper.

Anyone who is interested in this case and can furnish employment, should call Congress 7600—the Boston Chamber of Commerce—and ask for Case No. 10.

Paris (A.P.).—The government was sustained on a question of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies today when the lottery loan scheme, intended to improve France's finances, was rejected by a vote of 330 against 242.

JURY INDICTS WOMAN OF MYSTERY

Helen Sewall Named for First Time in Alleged Blackmail Cases

That the Middlesex County investigation into activities of the alleged Boston-Cambridge blackmail ring is to be more far-reaching than any investigation yet conducted was evident by the fact that Helen Sewall, new "mystery woman," was indicted for the first time in connection with the so-called shake-down cases.

Phyllis Allen, another woman indicted jointly with Miss Sewall, Daniel H. Coakley and Daniel H. Sugrue, was mentioned in other cases where she was known under the name "Pennington."

COAKLEY RETURNS.

Miss Sewall has not entered into the alleged blackmail cases either in Middlesex County or Suffolk County up to the time of the new indictments.

Daniel Coakley returned from Florida when notified that he was indicted last week.

He appeared at East Cambridge courthouse voluntarily and pleaded not guilty to the charges against him in connection with the Charles E. Stearns case. He was released on his personal recognizance.

TO SET TRIAL TODAY.

District Attorney Reading and Assistant District Attorney Bushnell of Middlesex County and District Attorney O'Brien and Assistant District Attorney Hill of Suffolk County and Special Attorney-General Albert Hurwitz had an extended conference with Chief Justice Hall of the Superior Court relative to the date of trials of William J. Corcoran and other defendants accused of alleged blackmailing schemes, and the trial of Daniel H. Coakley and William J. Corcoran on an indictment for perjury alleged to have been committed in the Berman-Coakley suit.

Chief Justice Hall was to settle the matter today.

Dancer Freed

ISADORA DUNCAN.

ISADORA WINS DIVORCE FROM POET HUSBAND

Dancer's Bolshevist Mate Said to Have Married Again Before He Was Free

Paris, Feb. 15.—Isadora Duncan said by some to be the world's pr miere danseuse, has obtained a d vorce from Serge Essenin poet laureate of the Bolshevists.

Miss Duncan has been trying to obtain a divorce since last Spring when after her return to Paris from her American tour, she and Serge "mixed it up" and wrecked their suite in the Hotel Crillon

Soon afterward Serge returned to Russia where, without going through the formality of a divorce, he married a youn actress from the Kamerny Theatre in Moscow

NOTICE DELAYED.

The divorce is understood to have been granted several months ago by the Bolshevist courts.

Miss Duncan, however, did not receive word of her divorce until today.

Serge was blacklisted and his ra tions cut off, and later he was jailed for certain poetic utterances which were said to antagonize the Bolshevist authorities. He was recently released from jail.

Reports received here from Petrograd indicate that the Bolshevist authorities hurried the divorce after the young poet got into difficulties.

QUESTION OF CITIZENSHIP.

By marrying the Russian poet, Miss Duncan relinquished her rights as an American citizen

The question of citizenship is again raised by her divorce. Miss Duncan is not certain now whether she is a citizen of Russia or the United States or whether she is a citizen of any country in the world. Friends declare that her residence in France has been sufficient to enable her to become a citizen of this country if such should become her desire.

The marital experiences of the Esenins have run the entire gamut of emotions.

LOVED FOR CENTURIES.

Isadora once said:

"I have loved Serge since 10,000 B. C. Together we played on the banks of the Nile in the days of old. I was a dancing girl and he was a soldier. Of course I recognized him when I saw him in Russia."

Serge, until recently, professed sincere love for the American-born danseuse. He admitted Isadora was not his first love, however, and when asked how many girls he had loved, answered:

"Why count the trees of the forests?"

SOMERVILLE BUDGET TOTALS $3,160,107.50

The budget recommendations of Mayor Webster of Somerville, sent to the board of aldermen, totaled $3,160,107.50, constituting an increase of approximately $84,694 over the expenditures of last year. The largest increase was for the department of education, for which he recommends $1,012,408, against $989,075 expended last year.

The estimated revenue is $565,950, leaving the amount to be raised by taxation $3,594,157.50.

CARDINAL GOES TO CALVARY TODAY

Meets Religious Leaders at Reception Tendered Him by Latin Patriarch

Jerusalem, Feb. 15.—At a reception tendered him by the Latin Patriarch, Cardinal O'Connell met the leading statesmen and churchmen of the city.

Among the guests at the reception were American and foreign consuls, representatives of the Greek Orthodox Church, the Armenian Patriarch, the superior of the Abyssinian Community, the Grand Rabbi of the Jews and the Syrian, Greek and Maronite representatives.

The cardinal celebrated mass in the Church of the Nativity at Bethlehem, in the grotto where Christ was born. He later visited the seminary of the Patriarch and the Mosque of Omar on the site of Solomon's Temple.

The cardinal also visited the British high commissioner and the garden of Gethsemane. He planned to visit Calvary and make the Way of the Cross today.

EASTON STIRRED UP OVER SCHOOL PLAY

Easton, Feb. 14.—Demands that charges against Meriam Frenyear, instructor in English at Oliver Ames High School, be aired at a public hearing, have been forwarded to John S. Ames, chairman of the school committee here.

Miss Frenyear has been criticized for a one-act play presented by members of her class, January 31 and February 1, entitled "Mrs. Pat and the Law." The play is alleged to ridicule the Irish race and to be based on "a drunken father, a brutal attack on a mother and the suffering of a helpless child."

HIBERNIANS PROTEST.

It was learned today that the meeting held by the local chapter of the Ancient Order of Hibernians not only brought out the charges against Miss Frenyear concerning the play, but that the mother of an Easton girl openly charged that the English teacher had attempted on one previous occasion to incite religious hatred in her class.

This mother said that her daughter had been given a clipping referring to the bogus oath of the Knights of Columbus by Miss Frenyear and that the girl was told to be prepared to recite on it the next day. The girl took the clipping home and showed it to her parents. The next day she refused to recite.

James McAna, former president of the Eastern Chapter of the A. O. H., announced that no stone would be left unturned to bring the situation to a head. "Miss Frenyear has shown herself to be unfit to hold the responsible position of teacher in English in our high school," said Mr. McAna. "The play 'Mrs. Pat and the Law' depicts the lowest possible type of man. The English used in the play is bad, the plot is degrading and the play cannot in any sense be considered as of educational value."

Timothy Carter, secretary of the local A. O. H., and Miss Hannah Josephine Nagel, president of the ladies' auxiliary, were also vehement in their denunciation of Miss Frenyear and of Principal Mann and Superintendent Wheeler for allowing such a play to be staged.

WORK OR BEER?

Miss Frenyear terms the attack on her "amusing." "I am more amused than anything," she said. "I did not even know there was any talk until I heard there was a story in one of the papers. There is nothing wrong about the play."

The play in question opens with "Mrs. Pat" leaving over the washtub scrubbing. She has a quarrel over eye presented to her by her drunken husband, who is reposing on a bed with a crippled son. A visiting nurse comes in and has "Mrs. Pat" call a police officer. The officer arrives but "Mrs. Pat" decides to give her husband another chance and the policeman and visiting nurse are kicked out of the house. "Mrs. Pat" gives her husband fifteen cents and he goes parts, looking for work or a can of beer—the audience is left in doubt which.

The pupils who took part in the play were:

Marie Anderson..... Mrs. Pat
Howard Range..... The Cop
Charlotte Randall .....The Nurse
William Carter..... .....The Son
James Healy ..... Mr. Pat
Elton Rosen.....Stage Manager
Arthur Watts.....Scene Director

A formal protest sent to the school committee by the Indignation meeting held by the A. O. H. demands the resignation of Miss Frenyear and an apology from Principal Mann and Superintendent Wheeler. The letter also asks that no more plays be allowed unless they have been sanctioned by the school committee.

EVERYONE INTERESTED.

"There are abundant classics," says the letter, "with literary merit to satisfy the most exacting teacher. Never should the school committee permit the use of any vehicle which contains a line vicious in itself or offensive to any race, creed or group."

The letter urges that no play should be allowed which might reason the mind of even one student. "If the play had not already been presented," reads the letter, "we would have taken legal steps to stop it."

Discussion over the play, and the resultant controversy is the subject of conversation here among old and young. It is doubtful if there is a hall in town large enough to accommodate all who will seek to attend the public hearing if one is called.

BOY OF SIX GIVES HIS LIFE TO SAVE 2

Amesbury, Feb. 15.—Howard Stanley Pioska lost his life and saved the lives of two of his brother, aged two, and their sister, four years old, when by the little girl after Amesbury firemen had extinguished the fire which threatened the Pioska home at No. 70 Mill street.

"Stanley made me and Dannie go down under the bed in mamma's room," Jennie Pioska said. "Stanley pulled the mattress down over the side of the bed, to make a wall. Then he went back to the kitchen to put the fire out."

"After a while," says Jennie, "he came back to us and lay down beside us. He was crying. I don't remember what happened after that."

Thief Returns Auto Parts Stolen From Pastor's Flivver

Even sneak thieves have conscience. The Rev. Leonard A. Nies, pastor of the Pine Methodist Church of Somerville, can prove it. Various flivver accoutrements he mourned as lost have come back.

A few nights ago the minister left his car outside the church while he conducted prayer meeting. A spare tire and rim, a tube, a radiator cover and several other stray pieces of parts disappeared.

Today every article was on a lawn near the church.

The thieves evidently learned that they had robbed a minister and had returned the loot.

The taxicab operated by Michael [illegible] street, Roxbury. Although Watson was thrown from the car, he proceeded to the fire. Hanover and Prescott street in a Ford sedan. Both machines were damaged.

Stevenson, who held the officers at bay for some time, was wounded twice and was reported in a serious condition.

Filing of the interrogatories follows the filing of a suit by Shaw against the executor of Mrs. Shaw's

Medford Man Said to Be One of the Pair Who Fleeced Woman in "Investment"

Police inspectors today arrested Gino Perotti of Wareham street, Medford, charged with being implicated in the robbery last March of a Medford woman, who was fleeced of 200,000 lire, worth $8,000.

Leo J. Spinelli, formerly employed at the International Trust Company, was arrested a few days ago in connection with the theft.

The victim is Mrs. Elesberta F. Volturno, a storekeeper at No. 387 Main street.

She was asked by the men to invest her savings with them, being promised a premium. She received a small sum representing interest, she said, but no more.

Investigation caused bank officials to complain in District Attorney Pelletier's office, and Spinelli and Perotti were indicted, charged with larceny.

DRUGS EXCITE THE KIDNEYS, DRINK WATER

Take Jad Salts at First Sign of Acid Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney troubles because we often eat too much rich food, the blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminating tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead or your back hurts, if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by taking a good kidney flushing any time. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

WINTER TELLS 'HONEY' SHE'S 'LIVING A MODEL LIFE'

New York, Feb. 15 (Universal).—Another batch of mysterious letters appeared in the wake of the alienation suit brought by Mrs. Madeline H. Modica of Brooklyn, for $500,000, against Countess Rogér De Perigny, sister of Harry K. Thaw, who was, before her marriage to the Count, Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie.

It is not known who wrote the letters and they have not appeared in any court action so far, but they were sent to one Emanuel Victor Martinez. Modica's name is Emanuel Victor, and he says he once was known on Broadway as Emanuel Victor Martinez. The Countess De Perigny was Margaret Thaw.

All the letters show that the writer left New York toward the end of August, 1923, for a visit to Pittsburgh. On a letter head of the Hotel York, at York, Pa., this missive was written

BIBLE AT HAND

"Darling:

"We made 200 miles today . . . My old friend, the Bible, placed here by Gideon Society, is beside me. The worse the hotel the more sure one is to find a Bible.

"Now to my bath and sleep. Shall forget the squalor of this room and think of something pleasant. Our last dances for instance. Good night, dear.

"Always yours,

"MARGARET."

In a letter written from Pittsburgh August 23, the writer said, in part.

"Mammy, Dear:

"I did not find a letter from you here when my dog and I arrived here yesterday afternoon; but I did find one about the steamer, and I have just now telegraphed him to secure cabin C 39 and bath on S. S. Homeric sailing September 15.

"Now I am wondering if you are even thinking of going over, or was it all after-dinner talk? I am going for sure, and this very day I am writing to my attorney to arrange for letter of credit, etc. X X X.

"Now, do write. It is mighty quiet here and I have only your letters to look forward to. I am the weary, and leading a model life, and therefore need all your news.

"Always lovingly,

"MARGARET."

ON WORRY LIST

In the next letter, written again from Pittsburgh, and dated the same day, August 23, the writer says:

"Darling:

"What's the trouble? I am worried. Since I left New York I have had no word at all from you. Am afraid that wetting when you went out to telephone me made your cold worse and that you are sick and unable to write.

"If no letter comes today, I shall telegraph, but I do not like to do that. When telegrams come here they are telephoned up to the house and any one may receive the message.

"I think of all kinds of things and shall have no peace until I have news of you

"Always with love,

MARGARET."

"M. T. C." MONOGRAM

A letter dated August 24 on gray paper, with the monogram "M. T. C." in the upper left corner, reads as follows:

"Manny Darling—I cannot tell you how relieved and happy I was to receive your first letter yesterday. It was awful to be so long in suspense.

"I am sorry, dear, you were so blue and sad. I want you to love me and to miss me, but I do not want you to be unhappy.

"Now, dear, cheer up and let us talk sense. I shall be back at Plaza either Tuesday or Wednesday p. m., the 28th or 29th, and shall have one night—dinner and dancing with you there on the 31st.

"I motor up to Lenox and shall return to Plaza the 4th of September, stay at the Plaza until the 15th, when I sail on the SS. Homeric, so we shall see each other many times and can fix up something, but NOW what I want you to do is to get busy and find out how much you would need to go abroad for five or six weeks including SS., etc.

WANTS HIM TO GO

"Figure it out at a minimum of first-class. I am sure you could get good rates on the Homeric at this season. You need not have but a small angle cabin and in Paris you could go to a hotel like the Continental, where you could get a cheap room but be central, and if it is not far from the Crillon, where I shall be, so you won't even need taxicabs to come over to take me out dining.

"Now do get busy. This will give you something to do, so you will not be lonely, and when I get back we can fix it up.

"Now darling—please be happy and forget your sadness. Don't you know I want to be back with you, sweetheart? We are going to have lots of good times—don't you believe it?

"Always yours,

"Margaret."

Under date of August 25, written at Cresson, and again on stationery with the monogram "M. T. C.," this letter appears:

CUTS OUT LIQUOR

"Darling Your third letter came this morning . . . . Telephone me Wednesday about 12:30 and we can arrange for dinner together for Wednesday night. It will be good to be back, and I am looking forward to lots and lots of dances with you, so be on your toes.

"Honey, I have not had one sip of alcohol since I left New York. I have a bottle of cocktails and one of scotch with me, but just do not feel like it. I think it good for one to cut it out now and then for a few days, just to show who has control, one's self or John Barleycorn.

"Hope I may be able to handle it right when we go out Wednesday evening. Now, ear, are you figuring out the trip abroad, the steamship rate, etc., and attending to your passport, etc., etc.

"You can call it a loan if it will make you feel more comfortable. I have not much on hand now in New York, but I had notice from Pittsburgh that they have arranged for my letter of credit, and it is a good one, so I shall have plenty when I get it over there.

"Just a few days now and we will be back here again. I want to be back with you. I miss you so

"A heap, darling, and more later, Your

MARGARET."

On Hotel Plaza paper, with the "M. T. C." in the upper corner, this letter was written August 30, with the time indicated as 8:45 a. m.:

"Darling

"Hope you feel as well as I this nice bright day.

"Shall listen for your voice tonight after six or six-thirty, and on the 5th a rendezvous—and the 15th.

"As ever, loving.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. F. X. MAHONEY,
Boston Health Commissioner.

THE duty of a parent is to give his child its natural heritage—good health.

The prevalence of adenoids is general and it is the duty of the parent to see that his child is not afflicted with them in an unnatural condition.

Dr. Mahoney.

There is a general lack of knowledge about adenoids The average person accepts readily that "adenoids are bad," but that about ends his knowledge on the subject.

Adenoids are natural tissues back of the palate. They are out of sight when a person looks into his own throat at the mirror

These adenoids, in their natural function, secrete a moisture which aids in purifying the air one breathes.

When the adenoids are unnaturally enlarged they close the air passages from the nostrils. The result is that the sufferer breathes through his mouth instead of his nose

This is bad. It causes a dryness of the mouth, sometimes laryngitis—causes dullness mentally—often chances the features of the sufferer by making the front teeth protrude.

The child suffering from adenoids keeps his mouth open all the time as a rule. Another symptom is loud snoring at night

The voice is frequently affected and there are chronic nasal disorders. In some cases adenoids have resulted in a total loss of the sense of smell.

There is only one cure for enlarged adenoids, and that is an operation. This is not as bad as it sounds, however, for the operation is a simple one and attended with little danger

After the removal of the enlarged adenoids a noticeable improvement in the health of the child will be promptly shown.

When a parent has any suspicion that his youngster is suffering from enlarged adenoids he should consult a physician at once.

The medical inspection now given in the public schools is of material assistance in bringing to light the great number of sufferers from adenoids, but this does not relieve the parent of his responsibility.

Permitting enlarged adenoids to exist in your child's throat puts him under a great handicap through life.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

The saliva runs from the right side of my mouth almost continually. Once in a while it comes thick, at times tastes bitter, and then again sour. It has been like this for 18 years. C. L.

There must be some deformity, a badly draining gland or decayed tooth on that side. There may be a slight paralysis. This must be diagnosed by a physician.

Is high blood pressure ordinary in a person 58 years of age? MRS. T. J.

High blood pressure is generally due to the hardening of the arterial walls. The latter may be due to old age, or to a number of constitutional diseases as heart or kidney trouble. There is also a so-called functional high pressure, the cause of which is unknown. The cure will depend on the cause of the disease, which is not common in persons of 58 years. A doctor of repute should be consulted.

I suffer from thyroid bronchitis. During [illegible] 1923. I was laid up with bronchial spasms. Was this traceable to the bronchitis, and will it be easy for me to develop pneumonia again, as I am not afflicted with bronchitis? A. L.

The bronchitis has lowered your resistance, and if bronchio-pneumonia will develop easier unless there is a low resistance. The same thing holds true for future attacks.

The Listener

The Shepard Stores station here must come pretty near holding the record for the number of remote controls. Broadcasts have been made from Symphony, Horticultural, Jordan and Mechanics Halls, Tremont Temple, Park Street and Christian Science Churches, most of the theatres, several downtown and Back Bay hotels, the Arena, Braves Field and Harvard Stadium in addition, most of these programs have been sent by land wire to the other Shepard station, WEAN, in Providence, to be rebroadcast.

One of the snappiest organizations I have yet heard came winging in from KYW, Chicago, the other night when Ray Young's banjo sextet got into action. It was a pleasing novelty, and they produced both semi-classic numbers and jazz equally good.

WEAF, I'll remain at home with the old set instead of going to town any afternoon you run one of your telephone lines down to Washington and broadcast a session of the investigation into the oil land lease scandal. Make Congress pay for it. Hook up your Washington station, the one in Providence, and the cities out West that were in on President Harding's address, and you'll be doing the best radio stunt of the year. It would be much better than a lecture on how to sneeze without blowing germs out your ears, or a talk on why you should use a bank instead of a mattress to put money in

The number of dinner concerts to be heard these nights is amazing. Many of them come from hotel dining rooms, and many's the time I've chuckled at the plight of the poor waiter who chooses to smash a cup within shaking distance of the microphone.

Vincent Lopez and his boys are playing some amusing stuff. One, with a title something like "Transtown Follies," is the best bit of fun I've heard for some time. It sets "Sitting in a Corner" over in a corner for being good dance music

STATIC KNOCKS OUT WYOMING STATION

Two Forest Service radio stations in Wyoming have ceased operation, due to static interference in that locality. Those are WWP at Laramie and WWP at Medicine Bow Peak, Wyo., licensed by the Department of Commerce as point-to-point stations in the Forest service last July, for use in reporting forest fires. The acting forester stated that the static proved to be so troublesome as to preclude the advantageous use of the set on Medicine Bow Peak. Before the installation it was thought that the peak was ideal for the location of a transmitting station to send to Laramie, fifty or sixty miles distant.

2-WAY CODE FROM HUB TO HOLLAND

George J. Etter of No. 66 Admiston Dorchester, reports two-way communication with PCH, another amateur operator at Rotterdam, Holland, on 150 meters from his 100 watt station with a Hartley circuit and 3eX tuner. Communication was by international signals, and it is believed to be the first two-way amateur low wave talk with Holland.

Radio Queries

Enclosed you will find diagram of my set. I have got as far as Missouri on one tube. It has developed a bubbling noise, but if I put my fingers across the grid leak, it stops. Would an 11-plate vernier condenser be better than a 13 plate? Should the negative side be grounded

F. S.

Your grid leak has probably become defective through the absorption of moisture or some such cause. An 11-plate condenser would not improve your set greatly. It is an excellent idea to ground the negative A as you have done

Can you tell me who runs station 2SAC and where it is located? Would also like to know what station it was at which a woman announcer played Scotch airs on Monday night the 12th. J. D. A.

There is no 2SAC. You probably heard 2XAC, the Stapleton, N. Y., station of the Ship Owners' Radio Service. Perhaps some other reader can identify the other.

Can some listener tell me the name and location of the station that signed off at 10:24 p. m. Feb. 8 on 345 meters? Sounded like KYW WHW came in on same wave length just afterward. J. D. C.

HEARS WOLF PACK AND WEAF AT SAME TIME

Writing from the "land that God forgot," M. P. Bracken of Twin Falls, Ontario, Canada, not far from James Bay, says in a letter of appreciation for a recent program from WEAF

"When you came in it nearly deafened me and I began eliminating tubes until I had only the detector plugged in. I could hear you clearly. In fact it was the clearest reception I had ever experienced.

"We are a hydro-power plant on a frozen northern river, not far from James Bay, bounded on all sides by endless forests, and it is only necessary to open the door to hear a wolf pack howling somewhere."

DEAF 32 YEARS, HEARS CONWAY OVER RADIO

Many Opposed to Boxing Begin to Realize It May Be All Right, After All

If Jack Conway broadcasts reports of any more boxing matches he will make every one of New England's so-called gentler sex into a fight fan.

Since last Tuesday, when he reported the Tommy Loughran-Johnny Wilson bout from Mechanics Building by radio, several women have written in their appreciation of Jack's story of the encounter.

For instance, Mrs. E. C. Roberts of Poplar street, Roslindale, writes:

"Although I am not a believer in those things, I just thought I would listen to the fight story. I was so sleepy I could hardly hold my head up, yet I couldn't tear myself away from the radio. It was so interesting to listen to Mr. Conway and so intensely exciting.

"One was wondering every minute what who coming next. I guess I was as anxious as anyone to know which one was going to win. Those who like those things couldn't help being pleased to hear it over the radio, and in my estimation it was much better than being there, for you didn't have to see the unpleasant part of it."

Mrs. Roberts has been deaf for thirty-two years. In all this time she has not heard a church service until she heard the various services broadcast by WNAC.

Corns Wither and Lift Out With Fingers. No Pain.

Corn sufferers gather round; get right on close and listen, here's good news for you.

The real genuine "Corn Killer" is here at last. No humbug. Ice-Mint, the new discovery made from a Japanese product, is said to surely and quickly end any foot misery. It just makes a pair of tired, swollen, aching, burning feet glow with cooling comfort.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also toughened, callouses just shrivel right up and lift off so easy. It's wonderful!

Every foot sufferer can appreciate a treatment like this, especially women who wear high heel shoes and men who are obliged to stand on their feet all day.

Try it. Just ask in any drug store for a few cents' worth of Ice-Mint and learn for yourself what solid foot comfort really is. There is nothing better.

LILLIAN GISH TO WED RICH MATE OF SHIP

Star Was Recently Linked in Romance With Divorced Movie Producer

By C. F. BERTELLI.
Universal Cable Service.

Paris, Feb. 15—Paris and Riviera society is today having a regular gossip orgy in which American divorces and love matches are the main topics.

Screen stars, social lions, beautiful divorcees, titled exiles, an Egyptian Prince charming, a pair of ex-kings and a millionaire American publisher are some of the figures around which the breathless tale of romance—bright new romances and shattered old ones—are woven.

From Florence comes a tale of Lillian Gish's shiny new romance—her engagement to a rich and handsome Italian ship's officer. From Cannes Mrs. Jean Nash, once divorced because bankruptcy threatened her husband for trying to maintain her reputation as Europe's best dressed woman, wires Universal Service that she has cast aside Prince Sabit Bey, royal Egyptian, and is betrothed to Baron Lederman Von Wartberg, nephew of Otto Kahn, famous financier. She is the third to announce an engagement with the Baron since November last.

The Paris newspapers are carrying an advertisement that Baron D'Erlanger will no longer be responsible for the debts of his wife who was Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt.

In the Seine tribunal Mrs. Ralph Pulitzer, wife of the millionaire head of the New York Morning and Evening World has filed suit for divorce, it is authoritatively stated.

LILLIAN GISH IN LOVE.

The latest romance of Lillian Gish is a startling new piece of gossip. Up to the last few hours there has been a story which would not down, in spite of denials from both sides that Mrs. Charles H. Duell, who recently obtained a Paris divorce had freed her husband so that he might marry the star in the new picture being made under his direction in Italy.

Now it appears that when Lillian came to Italy on the liner Conte Rosso, she met and fell in love with Piero Frois, first officer of that vessel, and plans to marry him as soon as her contract with Inspiration Pictures expires. He comes from a good family and is reported to be wealthy.

known whether Captain Frois has relinquished his commission, but he has remained at Florence in spite of the fact that his ship has departed from Naples. Lillian came to Italy to play Juliet to Richard Barthelmess' Romeo.

Duell has left Florence for London and is thought to be sailing shortly for the United States.

NORMA STARTS SOON ON A NEW FILM

Frank Borzage to Handle the Megaphone and Don Make-up in "House of Youth"

EVEN the tireless movie actress must occasionally have a vacation, but few are so lucky as Norma Talmadge, who has just finished work on her latest picture, directed by Frank Borzage. The charming First National star left Thursday for Havana, Key West and Palm Beach on the yacht of no less than—Irving Berlin. Mr. Borzage, by the way, will don makeup as well as handle the megaphone for Norma's new picture, "The House of Youth," a story of the young people of today, their petting parties, and their follies. Eugene O'Brien will continue in support of Miss Talmadge, while the third lover has not been announced.

Berlin, Feb. 15.—Whenever the national "Deutschland Uber Alles" is broadcast by radio in Germany from one somewhere, butte fa[illegible] according to German newspaper paragraphers.

It is certainly not a violation of the Treaty of Versailles for the Germans to play the martial air as often as they like, which they do sometimes three times a day over the radio.

SLATER DINNER HEARS YOUNG KAHN JAZZ

Financier's Son and His Band of Melody Makers Perform for the Party

New York, Feb. 15—Roger Wolfe Kahn and his own modern jazz orchestra made their debut in an atmosphere redolent of the earth's most noble and oldest civilization, tonight.

It is doubtful if the "Roger Wolfe Kahn Jazz Orchestra" ever will be a more distinguished audience than that was at dinner in the Park avenue home of Mrs. Horatio Nelson Slater, in honor of Princess Baratieri Hotzendorf.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Widener and Baron De Long Vaux. There also were twenty guests from Washington, who arrived with the hostess' daughter, Mrs. Stuart Wells.

Chinese was the dominant decorative note. The [illegible] pieces [illegible] Chinese crystal bowls [illegible] ancient dynasty, filled with [illegible] and [illegible] Chinese opium bowls were filled with [illegible] and snapdragons.

MANAGER BANCROFT SAYS HE HAS GOOD CLUB AS IT STANDS

FAILED TO MAKE A TRADE

By NICK FLATLEY

Manager Dave Bancroft, present taxi-ing Christy Mathewson and Judge Fuchs around Boston, isn't worried over trades, or things like that. He says he has a pretty good ball club, just as it stands, and seems confident enough that all will be well with the season.

Bancy motored over from New York and admitted the going wasn't half so tough as he expected it to be.

He's present with Matty and the Judge and Fred Mitchell getting thinned round for the Spring excursion, when starts in little more than a week hence. The little shortstop made a final try to get a player or two for the club in the New York meeting the other day, couldn't get half an even swap, so decided to call it a Winter.

HE WILL LINGER IN THESE PARTS A FEW DAYS.

He has locked up his home in Wisconsin and will linger in these parts for what little is left of cold weather in his busy life. Though he may not know it yet, Davey must blossom forth as an after-dinner and after-lunch orator two or three times in the next week. Then he will admit that manager is a whole lot tougher than just playing.

Looks as if all hope of a deal with the St. Louis Cards had been dropped into the ash can. Branch Rickey was willing to swap Jeff Pfeffer, but from the terms he proposed, he must have had the venerable flinger crossed up in his mind with Rogers Hornsby.

Jeff could win a few ball games for any club, without a doubt, but to get him, Mutty was asked to give away practically all the rest of his outfit.

According to the president and the judge, there was a bit of trouble with Bill Sweeney. Even though last year was a bad one, you could call any kind of a season there were no salary squabbles, and the boys got a little boost.

ANY WHO KICK SHOULD BE TRADED TO RICH CLUB

Any Brave athlete who could kick consequently would be traded to the Giants in one of those million dollar club.

Jocko Conlan of Harvard and Woburn, will have a final season with the owners before he is eligible to sign a contract. Jocko had a fair minor salary last season, and didn't make the grade.

So he will have to stand for a big cut, if he is to be given another try. Chances are he will be farmed out for a while at least, and the young man has been having a tough time trying to face other ball players, sticking to business and to night leaguing on the side.

AGNES GERRAGHTY, WHO BROKE SIX RECORDS AT MIAMI

In Circle—Gertrude Ederle, the best of all.

SISTERS BREAK FIFTY YARDS RECORD

Two Brookline sisters broke the N. E. A. A. U. record for the fifty yard dash at the Women's Swimming Meet in the Cabot street municipal bath in Roxbury, conducted by the swimming committee of the N. E. A. A. U. and the Park Department. A new record was also established in the plunge for distance.

Olive Holland

Miss Mollie McEttrick, sensational Brookline mermaid and high school girl, former title holder in the 40-yard dash in New England, broke her own record when she swam the distance in 31 4-5 seconds. Her sister, Helen, finished a fifth of a second behind in 33 seconds. The old record in New England was 32 3-5 seconds. Doris McCann of Fawtucket, R. I., finished third.

The 100 yard handicap swim was won by Olive Belanger of Worcester in 1m. 33s. Mollie McEttrick finished a tenth of a second behind her in one of the closest races ever witnessed in New England. Olive Holland of Wollaston took third honors.

Katherine Mearis of the Boston Swimming Club swam to first place in the 100-yards breast stroke in 1m. 24 4-5s. Doris O'Connor of the Posse Normal School and Catherine Daley of Worcester finished second and third.

Mabel Mangher of the Boston Swimming Club plunged 52 feet in the plunge for distance, copping the old record of 48 feet by three feet. Katherine MacKenzie of the same club plunged 44 feet and Ellen Sparhawk of Melrose plunged 40 feet and 4 inches.

"BOOTLEGGER" ENTERED IN DOG SHOW

The old "Like father, like son" saying goes for dogs as well as for human beings.

Ch. Barberryhill Bootlegger, three year-old Sealyham terrier, owned by Bayard Warren of Pride's Crossing, proved it when he won the greatest honor in dogdom, the "best in show" award, at the Westminster Kennel Club in New York.

Bayard Warren

Bootlegger is following in the footsteps of that other famous Warren Sealyham with an equally anti-Volstead name, Ch. Barberryhill Gin Rickey. Gin Rickey three years ago captured the "best in show" crown at the Eastern Dog Club exhibition.

Bootlegger, by his victory in New York, naturally has become one of the favorites to take top honors in the Boston show at Mechanics Building next week. He will face exactly as hard a fight in the local competition as he did in Madison Square Garden, for the field here will be just as classy.

RYDER OUT TO CLEAN UP AT "TRI" MEET

Francis White

Coach Jack Ryder of Boston College will send Francis White, Boston College freshie and former Quincy high lad, to the starting mark Saturday night at the N. E. A. A. U. events in connection with the Cornell, Dartmouth and Harvard triangular meet.

White was clocked in 33 2-5 seconds in a trial run at the 300 on the N. A. U. grand meet and led the field for two laps. Thinking he had won the event, he slowed down and lost out.

Frank Kelly

"Hank" Moore of Medford will start in both the 40 yard dash in the afternoon at the Harvard scholastic meet and again in the evening in the New England scholastic dash. This boy in the B. A. A. meet received the greatest applause of any lad after his fine showing against Leon Murchison, who won the Moore finishing third.

There will be plenty of class in the 440 yard event with some of the best quarter and half milers gathering for the meet. Joe Tierney of Holy Cross will appear after being absent some his academic in the Unicorn meet. George Archibald of Bates, Carrie Hamilton of Bowdoin, Paul Dudley, Ray Robertson of the B. A. A., Glen Bateman, M. I. T.; George Smith, Boston University; Fred Littlefield, Tufts; Eddie Franzman, Colby, Roger Magoun, T. O. McMaskin and Don Mooney of Harvard. Boston College will be represented in the event with Captain Frank Kelly, Art Kirley, Joseph Ingolsby and Hurley.

Along with the star group of athletes entered from Boston College and the B. A. A. track teams, Coach Jack Ryder has a full team of his two well coached lots of starters gathering the major of prizes in the New England events.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND TEAM IS BOOKED

The Abegweits of Charlottetown, P. E. I., amateur hockey champions of the Maritime Provinces, will play the best two of three games with the Boston College team at the Arena tonight.

Jack Culhane

The Abegweits are one of the best sextet teams that ever came out of the Provinces. This team knows a bit of hockey and is a real champion outfit, and has held the title for three provinces for two years in succession. Boston College will have a tough game.

The Abegweits must be good to beat these midget forwards Jack Culhane, Bonny Foley and Red Gordon. This trio appears to go better in the third period than they do in the opening sessions.

The former Boston players are in the habit of getting a good start in the net. Dougan will be in the nets for the local Victorias in a test game, while he will be with the "Abegweits" for the second part time.

Earl Prowse who filled out with the Maple Leafs early in the season and was called home because of illness in his family, will on a wing against Boston College.

Basketball Notes

Johnny Naughton.

Bill Noonan.

Big doings in Charlestown to morrow night, when the Columbia telephone team clashes with the Bunker Hill Knights of Columbus five in a Greater Boston League game at the High School Hall court. The Bunker Hill lads are out to stop the Hello Boys and to show their class to the home folks.

To date this season the Charlestown five has been batting right up front with the cream of quintets in New England. Few, if any, of the players in these parts are equal to Johnny Naughton and Bill Noonan on the Kay see forward line, while "Red" Cotter and Art Tierney are seen playing backs, with John Duffy and "Coo" Thompson alternating at centre. Cotter, O Brien, Driscoll and Kelly.

The Okes of Brockton will lose early for Weymouth where they are slated to tackle the Weymouth A. A. These two outfits are rivals and great interest is shown in the match which is a South Shore league game.

Another game in Charlestown on Saturday night will be that between the Portland, Maine Boys' Club and the Boston Boys' Club. The latter organization has garnered fifteen out of eighteen games this season. Coach Hurwitz expects trouble from the Maine lads.

The season, 164 racing days, will be the longest since the sport was revived here, eleven years ago.

Each of the four Metropolitan tracks has one extra and Saratoga Spring course one day less.

B.A.A. INVITES MERCERSBURG TO MEET

By FRED C. LANE

Manager Tom Kanaly of the B. A. A. hopes to have Mercersburg Academy's way of noted athletes in the B. A. A. some day.

T. J. Kanaly

Should arrangements be made New England devotees of the sport will witness for the first time a delegation from the Pennsylvania school. Several of our best New England athletes attend Mercersburg and although Coach Curran has not said who will make the trip, it is certain that boys well known here will know their wares.

The B. A. A. has added another trophy to the list of prizes. It is a solid silver cup which will be competed for annually by the school which shall become the permanent owner of the cup.

Definite information has not been received yet. Without representation from this noted prep school much lustre will be taken from the meet. Exeter and Andover have been rivals on the athletic field for many years and the absence of one in a meet of the sort will be felt.

Big Money Season Nearly Here

By TAD

In a few weeks, the matchmakers will be getting ready for the Spring and Summer fights for the ball parks and outdoor arenas.

They have had few champions perform this Winter because there are no million dollar gates guaranteed by indoor boxing clubs.

In the Summertime, however, when the rags come from near and far and ringside seats that cost $25 or...dinarily can be sold by speculators for a couple of hundred apiece, the champs will appear.

Last Summer's clean-up got Tim McGrath to thinking of the enormous purses of today and the big purses of the past. Tim says:

"When John L. Sullivan passed as the world's champion people used to say that he made half a million dollars in the prize ring.

"Half a million dollars is a lot of money, even for these days, but Dempsey, counting what he received when he fought Carpentier, has made $100,000 more than that in two fights.

"One hundred thousand dollars—$101,000 to be exact—was what Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson received together when they fought at Reno, and that was a sure-enough big fight from the standpoint of public interest. But a promoter who offered Dempsey $100,000 for a fight now would be lucky if he received an answer. Things certainly change. I remember when I first went with Tom Sharkey to New York and the papers began urging that he fight Peter Maher for the championship of Ireland.

"Tom was much interested. He'd go out on the street, buy up every edition of each paper, and bring them back for me to read.

Tom Nearly Buys the U. S. Navy.

"When one of the papers stated that Tom's share of the fight might be as much as $5,000 he let out a whoop that could be heard clear out in the street.

"'Say,'" he said, 'go right over and close up the match! For $5 000 I'll agree to fight with meat axes!'

"'But wait, Tom,' I said, 'don't be in such a rush. Maybe we can get more money than that. It's a big match.'

"'I don't want more money,' he protested. 'For $5,000 I can buy a war ship!'

"That's what I'll do, bedad; I'll buy the Philadelphia and give all the boys there leave for a month.'

"It took a fair question with Tom Sharkey, when he was at his best as he was about that time, would have been worth as much as Carpentier or Tom Gibbons as an opponent for Dempsey?

JACKSON BEATS SIKI IN TEN ROUNDS

Columbus, O., Feb. 13.—"Tut" Jackson, Washington Court House negro heavyweight, won the referee's decision over Battling Siki in a ten-round bout.

Jackson won seven of the ten rounds, in the opinion of newspapermen at the ringside.

Siki appeared to be in poor condition.

MEDFORD IS FAVORITE FOR HARVARD GAMES

LEOMINSTER COPS DEFY FITCHBURG

Fitchburg, Feb. 15.—The Leominster police force has five men who make up a bowling team of merit. Word of this effect was received by the Fitchburg force.

The communication also contains a challenge for a series of two matches, one in each city.

The Leominster five include Inspector Harvey and officers Wheaton, Fralick, Caisse and Lawton.

ALL WRESTLERS ARE IN GOOD CONDITION

With two more training days to go the several grunts carded to battle at Promoter Tuohey's show in Mechanics Building on Monday night, will settle down to taper off their conditions.

George V. Tuohey

Thus far every one of the stars has trained nicely and is at his best, but he intends to leave nothing to chance.

This is true especially of Paul Zanovich, the whirlwind Lithuanian who is after revenge on Joe Mondt and is very confident that he will turn the tables on Monday night.

Mondt showed in the way he handled Stecker in Kansas City last Monday night that he is ripe for any kind of stuff Zanovich may pull so the chances are that Monday night's battle will be even more rugged and swifter than when they clashed here several weeks ago.

Elmer Saunders, the young 215-pound Wisconsin star declares that he has no fear of Pesek and in spite of John's reputation as a "Tiger" he figures he will be able to give the Nebraskan real trouble while the affair lasts. Pesek and Saunders go to a one-fall finish without time limit.

"CHICKIE"

The Beautiful, but Bluntly Honest Story of a Boston Girl

By ELENORE MEHERIN

Seething Life of a Lovely Boston Girl of This Strange Today

THE STORY OF "CHICKIE" TO DATE

"Chickie" Bryce is the only child in the family. Her sister having died when she was quite young, the parents lavished all their affection on "Chickie." As the story opens, "Chickie" is attending business college and Arthur Soniag, one of her classmates, takes her to a dance. "Chickie's" father is afraid of the pitfalls ahead for his daughter, but his fears are soothed by the girl and her mother. "Chickie" is thrilled to the core by the dance, and when Arthur kisses her as he bids her goodnight she believes that she has met "her hero." Mary Blake and "Chickie" blandly discuss love and marriage; Mary says it's too sordid for her, but "Chickie" thinks it will be all kisses and "walking on the mountain tops with her lover by her side." However, "Chickie" is disillusioned about a year later, when Arthur passes her on the street and fails to notice her. At eighteen, "Chickie" secured a position in a broker's office. There she met Janina, a girl worldly wise and one who told the other girls how to "handle" the men. "Chickie" went out with several men, but was not impressed by them. Mary Blake's sister, Lucy, married, and with four children, is an object of her sympathy.

Chickie watched the other girls

"YES—you selfish old Jonathan—you wish your little sweetness had no feet and no eyes and no senses at all, but was just a big lob of jelly to sit here content, night after night. Now, honestly, cutie-love, do you think that's a bit fair in you?"

We gave a snap whether it was fair or not! There she was—there he wanted her. He laughed: "But what about your old dad and little Jeanie alone so much?"

It always made her want to cry when he talked like this; it took the joy out of things.

And she was lonely enough with Jimmy gone and Mary married. Twice after Jimmy's return he asked her to go out. Each time, as it happened, she had the evening promised. For alone while he did not drop in or ask again.

Then Maria's son was born. Her whole thought and her soul were just poured out on that holy little bundle on that white-and-funny little thing, out of shape in Chickie's eyes so soft and pink feet in Mary's. Chickie couldn't spend all her evenings watching over little James Edward McPike.

Why shouldn't Jonathan want her to see the good shows—dance once or twice a week? Just sweet, harmless things like that. She wanted no vivid adventures, as Janina told with such a crimson tongue.

She could often have gone out with a crowd—stayed till the drab, gray morning broke. Other girls in the office did that. Chickie had not even a wish for it.

Until one day a startling thing happened.

Chickie worked in a towering building in Tremont street. Across the little alley was a companion building. Chickie's desk was near the window. In her idle moments she used to watch the girls in those other offices.

There was one with lustrous hair like a Fiji Islander. She spent every available moment feverishly rubbing a buffer over her nails. Another, with thin, curved shoulders and a hungry, avaricious way of pounding her typewriter, was devoted to her desk—never turned her eyes.

It was the superb luxurious creature with all the empty grandeur of a movie queen who fascinated Chickie. She never seemed to do any work, but sat with her feet on the radiator, a magazine in her lap. Two or three times she caught Chickie's stare and only turned for it a most enchanting smile.

One day, as Chickie watched the movie girl, there stood at an adjoining window a man—a young man—tall—with a beautifully sculptured head. He had a penknife in his hand and was slowly paring his finger nails. He stared over and gradually Chickie was suddenly aware that he had been looking at her and she looking at him for many seconds. She flushed crimson, turning abruptly to her desk.

Her hands trembled on the typewriter keys. She felt drawn, knowingly, as by some electric current to that opposite window with cold and unwinking face alight with careless mirth—red hair thick—brushed back.

For an hour she fought against the impulse to look again. Then she took a little sidelong glance from out the shadow of the room a tall form declined itself. The young man stood at the window.

Tremors of excitement were tingling over her—little waves of fire. He stood there and waited as though she had called and he was merely answering. Then he laughed and there was something boyish and full of lark in the light that seemed to glance about him. She wanted to laugh too—to call out gaily, "Hello, Red-head."

She had read a story once of a girl in a boarding house waving a young man in a studio across the street. The young man was an artist—a lonely fellow. When he became aware of the girl's interest it made him glad like sun streaming into a somber house. That was a beautiful story—all full of love. So sparkling the way they got acquainted and had such joyous times together.

Chickie imagined herself the girl in the story. She wondered about the young man whose dreams about him.

But for two days after the first encounter she kept her eyes from wandering across the alley. Down in her work one afternoon she came a sharp bang that made look up quickly. Across the street, the window of romance had been rattled down and now was rattled up. There in the window, laughing at her, was the red-haired man. Before she was aware her lips opened with a rush of bubbling happiness.

Yet several times they passed each other on the street. Chickie looked straight ahead. She felt the blood racing to her cheeks—her heart leaping.

One soft afternoon in late September a sudden breeze whisking through the open window lifted her papers, scattering them in a whirlwind all about the floor. As she stooped to pick them up the phone at her desk rang. A deep, rollicking voice offered, "Oh, I'll come over and gather them up if you like."

She knew it was that it was he. Then he was at the window, the phone in his hand. She put up the receiver quickly, but not before Janina had seen.

She leaned Chickie's desk, gave her a wink "Into the dress-ing room, woman!"

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

FARTHEST fields are most green and have ever been so since the time when the world first began, and to reckon his own holdings foolishly low is the way of that queer creature Man. He is sure to put always the utmost of stress on the worth of some other man's gold on the treasure or bauble he may not possess, or the gift that his hands may not hold. His his way to go counting the other chap's gain, while he's blind when his own scores are high and we hear him each day voice his fevered refrain: "Why must all the good luck pass me by?" Oh, what folly it is that a man should forget that the great gift for high or for low is the same one wherever his steps may be set—the gift of the hours as they go! All the fair daylight hours from dawning till dark, when the work of the world must be done, from the rosellut that comes with the song of the lark to the last golden rays of the sun, all the sweet, elastic future that fashion the night; time for dreaming, for thought and repose, time when sleep comes a-tip-toe with feet steps as light as the wind when it's wooing the rose. That's the gift not alone for the rich or the great or wooing the rose. That's the gift not alone to the men of one race, one creed, top to toe, as to you and to me. Thus the truest rare days belongs to every man's hands empty hours to use as he will, richer poor so far than rare jewels or gold. I ask of time he may shutter or fill.

The British Possessions Just Off Georgia

THE islands of Bermuda have been famous for several hundred years. For at least a century they have been a favorite resort of Americans who wish to escape the Winter, and recently to escape prohibition.

Bermuda is a British colony, located only a few hundred miles off the American coast in about the latitude of Georgia. During our Civil War it was the headquarters of the fleet of blockade runners who braved destruction by the Union navy in order to trade with the south.

These islands are really but peaks points on the Atlantic Ocean. If you climb a lighthouse in Saint David's Island, a little tower only a little over one hundred feet high you can see the entire archipelago spreading out below you, and a good wide margin of ocean all round it. The largest island is only a few miles long, and the smallest a few hundred feet. Causeways connect many of the islands with the two biggest ones, upon which the towns of Hamilton and St. George are located.

The Bermudas are the work of the coral insect which builds up from the bottom of the ocean and dies at the surface. Sand and soil are washed upon these reefs and eventually vegetation appears. A resident of Bermuda need dig down only a few feet to come to a coral floor of the island. When he needs stone for building purposes all he has to do is to cut out coral rock from his own back yard. The coral rock is so soft that it can be cut into blocks with a saw. When it is exposed to the air it hardens and makes splendid building material.

Nearly all the houses in Bermuda are built of coral and their dazzling whiteness and the whiteness of the coral roofs contrast brilliantly with the green of the luxuriant tropical vegetation.

Since the stratum of soil on Bermuda is so thin there are few springs, rivers or lakes. Fortunately the islands are located in a region of copious rains and all the inhabitants catch the rainfall in cisterns on their roofs. Thus they enjoy a pure and plentiful supply of water.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

DEAR MRS BEECKMAN

When using a knife and fork at table is it ever proper to lift the food to your mouth with your left hand? If so, when? B. M.

IN the so-called "Continental" method of eating, the food is practically always lifted to the mouth with the fork in the left hand. And I am an enthusiast for this manner of eating. The other way of eating—cutting a piece of meat, for instance, with the knife, putting down the knife on the plate, transferring the fork to the right hand and carrying the piece of meat to the mouth with the fork in the right hand—seems to me unnecessarily awkward and full of useless motions. It is astonishing to notice the enormous increase of people in this country who are adopting this Continental method of eating. It is much more graceful and much more sensible.

May I congratulate you, dear Mrs B. M., on the beautiful appearance of your letter? Your stationery is perfect, your handwriting one of the best I have ever seen, the spacing of your letter most artistic and the whole appearance excellent. No liberties have just a few suggestions to make your letter perfect. Black ink is best form. You should use no abbreviations, like "Dec." in a social letter (and I like to think that this is social), the use of the word "respectfully" at the ending of a letter is no longer good form and it is not necessary to use "New York" if you have already used "New York City." I do hope that you will write me again soon!

Hub Amateur in 2-Way Code Talk With Holland

Two-way communication with an amateur radio operator in Rotterdam, Holland, has been successfully established by George J. Etter of No. 66 Adams street, Dorchester.

Etter is believed to be the first amateur to carry on a two-way communication on low wave length with a Dutch operator.

With an ampere and a half on the antenna, Etter was calling on around 150 meters, when he heard the reply of PCH, Rotterdam. Communication was entirely with the international signals.

Etter's is a 100-watt station. He uses a Hartley circuit and a 9ZN tuner.

Is This an Honorable Government?

It Is. So Let the People of the United States Keep Their Word, and Not to Cheat, EVEN, Red Indians

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

The following editorial written by Mr. Fremont Older of San Francisco and reproduced by permission from the San Francisco Call, of which Mr. Older is editor, will be published also in Mr. Hearst's Washington Times, to remind those in authority that a great nation should KEEP ITS WORD, even with those that are weak:

FIRST GENTLEMEN OF AMERICA

By Fremont Older

You have read about the Pueblo Indians of Arizona and New Mexico, wondering why white friends of these Indians are so often raising their voices in the newspapers, complaining loudly.

The answer is short: These Indians are getting rough treatment at the hands of the white race. The Indians have heard a great deal about white justice and democracy, but they have been learning that these words sometimes mean that any white man can do anything he wants to any member of a dark-skinned race.

The Pueblo Indians have lived in their present territory for thousands of years. At one time it didn't seem desirable land, but the possibility of irrigation and the probability of rich mineral deposits have made the land they own more valuable.

In the beginning the Indians went there because they didn't particularly like to fight. Warlike Indians chased them away from more fertile valleys, forced them to settle in this somewhat meagre land.

There they developed a fine civilization of their own. Robert Herrick called them the first gentlemen of America. They are kind, gentle, not covetous. They mind their own affairs. They have no ambitions that compel them to beat down other men and trample on their spirits.

And because they are what they are they are now having an unfortunate experience at the hands of greedy and callous white men.

"Unfortunate experience" means that they are about to starve to death unless OTHER Americans, who do not covet their lands, will come to the rescue and save them from the Americans who have steadily stolen from the Pueblo Indians.

These Indians had much land when the United States acquired New Mexico in 1848. This country left them in possession of their lands. A Federal court decided in 1877 that the Pueblos owned those lands. That didn't mean, however, that individual Indians could sell their property. The Pueblos are a corporation and one Indian can't sell an acre of land any more than a stockholder in the telephone company can sell you a telephone.

And again, in 1913, a Federal court declared that though the Pueblos owned their land, they were and always had been WARDS of the government, and couldn't sell or give away an inch of their land.

That ought to settle something. If the Indians had plenty of land in 1848 and never have had the legal right to sell or give any of it away, then they still must have all of it today.

But that isn't the way things have worked out.

The white men have been creeping, creeping, creeping. They have grabbed, sat down solidly on their stolen property and remained right there, waiting for a chance to steal more. The thieving started long ago. The first time the Apaches and Comanches came raiding. The white settlers living outside the Pueblo lands came to the Pueblos and begged for protection. Once in, living in Indian houses on Indian lands, they stayed. Other white men begged the temporary use of land and neglected to return it. And others got deeds by fraud from ignorant Indians. The Indians got the worst of it.

The white men farm their stolen land and ask Congress to give them titles to that property. Kind Senator Bursum tried to oblige them last year by introducing a bill to legalize their titles. The bill was defeated, but it is back this session with another name. It is now called the Lenroot bill, but it is just as bad as ever—an attempt to legalize by congressional action titles that only can be legalized by court decision.

The Indians, in the meantime, are behaving in very fine fashion.

They aren't moaning and tearing their hair. Instead they have said this:

"We don't ask for the return of all our property, but we do wish you would return enough land to enable us to earn our own living, without being compelled to beg from the government. Please reimburse us for some of our stolen property at its farm value; we do not ask for the value of the improvements put upon it since its seizure; but give us this and we will be content."

You may have noticed how often in these last twenty-five years we Americans have plumed ourselves on the generous way the United States returned its share of the Boxer indemnity to China. History may say that the white men who gave millions to the yellow race reimbursed themselves by stealing millions from the red men. Then will our children be proud to say: "We found a twelve-thousand-year-old Indian civilization in Arizona and New Mexico and you ought to have seen how quickly our fathers smashed it!"

Gasoline a Necessity

Governor Cox Does Well to Act

The promptness with which Governor Cox has acted on the collusive rise in the price of gasoline must be pleasing to nearly all the people of the State. We have no doubt that Commissioner on Necessaries of Life Hultman will report both the cause and the remedy for the increase.

It is interesting to note that gasoline can be declared a necessary of life. By that very sign we can appreciate how civilization advances and how time makes ancient truths uncouth. Who, twenty years ago, would ever have dreamed that serious public men could consider gasoline as a necessary of life? Yet the power to investigate the causes of the rise in the price of gasoline rests upon the assumption that it is a necessary of life.

LISTEN, WORLD! -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

BIOLOGY has become an extremely popular subject within the last few years. Thanks to Mr. Wells and our leading journalists, we all know Diplodoci and Pterodactyls once enlivened the landscape, and that we are, in all probability, remotely related to something that hung by its tail and made faces at the moon.

This new knowledge sets us up immensely. With what satisfaction do we view a picture of hairy old Mister Pithecanthropus and reflect on our own safety razors. The more we learn about those remote beasties, who crawled and climbed and flopped and slimed their way about this globe, the more satisfied are we with our own perfection. But that satisfaction is apt to be dangerous.

FOR WHAT GOOD DOES IT DO YOU TO KNOW THAT YOU'RE DESCENDED FROM A PREHISTORIC MUDFISH IF YOU CONTINUE TO ACT LIKE ONE?

The mudfish was one of the lowest forms of life. In a world of sea creatures it alone grew something that approximated lungs, and by so doing paved the way for land vertebrates. The man of today does not in the least resemble a mudfish. He has arms and legs, a smooth skin upon which he puts talcum powder, and a bands-lined layback.

The man of today is the Flower of Civilization, and the mudfish was only a Poor Start, according to the man of today. But wait a moment! On what do you base your civilization? On the fact that you have legs while the mudfish lacked them? On the fact that your backbone doesn't end in a tail while the great apes did? The kangaroo has mightier legs than you, and the toad has a tailless spine. Yet they are not civilized.

It's not the tail-end of a spine that distinguishes a man from a monkey or a mudfish—it's the other end. How does the top end of your spine work? Civilization isn't a matter of breathing or walking freely. It's a matter of thinking freely. Are you tolerant—progressive—eager to seize new ideas—willing to grant the other fellow a different viewpoint? Or do you cling to the "good old ways of your father"? Do you brand all new ideas a "vicious radicalism"? Do you bewail every innovation and condemn every departure from the custom of your youth? If so, believe me, Pal, you have nothing on the mudfish, even if you do wear pants.

That lowly amphibian may seem contemptible in comparison to you, but he had sufficient enterprise to break away from the ways of HIS fathers and grow blood vessels in his swimming bladder. Doubtless the conservative citizens of the deep had cutting things to say about such radicalism. But he grew them just the same, and by so doing lived through the long drought which killed the lungless leaders and cleared the way for you and me. But for whom are YOU clearing the way? He looked forward, but you look back. He grew lungs, but you grew moss. And yet you feel quite cocky when you look at the picture of a mudfish and think how far you've come!

Husband a Deserter

Editor Helping Hand:

Is there someone who will help a mother of two small children, one two weeks old and a girl three years old? She is trying hard to keep her children with her. Her husband is a deserter, whereabouts unknown. Any article of clothing for herself, size 38 or 40, or for the children will be gratefully received. As she is keeping house she would appreciate any article of furniture or dishes. Has anyone a crib or warm blankets they have no use for? Parcel post or express charges will be paid by a woman friend who is trying to help.

MRS. H.

Would Adopt Baby

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a good home which I will give to some baby girl for adoption. There are no other children here, so won't you please help me find one. I can furnish good references.

MRS. E. B. S.

We think it is sad for a mother to part with her baby, but if she must, this sounds like a good home for one.

In Awful Fix

Editor Helping Hand:

Will some kind person help me by sending me some clothing for a new-born babe, and a pair of shoes for a little boy of two years, size 2½, and a coat and hat for a boy five years. He has started to go to school and hasn't got a Winter coat and hat for this cold weather. I expect my baby early in February. My husband has deserted me and doesn't send me any support. We are living in an attic, only one room, paying six dollars a month. I can't live here much longer as my rent is due since I stopped work, and I can't work until everything is over. I'm sorry I'm in this awful fix.

MRS. M. D. 6.

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a box of clothes already to send. They include things for a man, size 40; a woman, size 36; a boy twelve, and two girls, eight and five. I should prefer to have

DR. FRANK CRANE ON THE COIN CALLED ACCOMMODATION

By Dr. Frank Crane

WHAT this suffering globe needs is more towardness and less fromness.

Accommodation.

Put it on, as a garment, even if you don't feel it as an impulse. You will find it will make more of a hit among your friends than any hat you can buy or any feather you can stick in it.

It is the oil that makes humanity work smoothly, and keeps it from grinding. What wears out our souls is not work, but friction. When our human relations get dry and begin to creak, and we make a noise like a rusty hinge in dealing with our fellows; when our contact with the children is accompanied by scolding, and there is fault-finding with our wife, and nagging with our husband, and sarcasm toward our mother-in-law, and sullenness with our employes, and satire, bitterness, grouchiness and snarling generally in our relations with our kind, then we need a liberal dose of the oil of accommodation.

How much of the sum total of life's pleasures is made up of accommodations! You start on a journey. You get your first wine-cup of good feeling inside of you when you see a man in the car arise and give his seat to a woman. Another little thrill is registered when a man in the smoker hands you a match. It's a little thing, and negligible, but it helps. Then when you ask the conductor what time you get into Podunk, he is not snippy, and does not tell you he doesn't know and why don't you look at the timetable, but is real nice and accommodating and looks up the schedule, and pleasantly says, "Well we're due at 11:45, but we may be about ten minutes late." And the brakeman takes your bag as you are trying to get off the car; and the hack driver, when you ask him to take you to the St. James Hotel, volunteers the information that the hotel is just a block away, and you don't need to ride, but you can give him your grip and he will take it over as he goes by, and does not allow you to enter his vehicle and drive you around the square and up and down the streets for half an hour and finally deposit you at the inn, which was only a few steps away, and soak you two dollars; and the hotel clerk is accommodating; and the bell hops, and the waiters, in the dining room; and the people you do business with, why you go to bed feeling like a million dollars.

All because you have all the day been fed on the choicest liquor of the soul—accommodation.

Everybody in the world likes accommodation. And there is one sure way to get it. That is to be accommodating. Action is equal to reaction in this world. Just practice one eight-hour day the rare art of being helpful to every person, cat, dog and horse with whom you are brought in contact. It will be the best day's work you ever did. For at evening time you will draw the most welcome pay you ever had—the wages of contentment.

You think you want a lot of things, such as money, fame, food and fun. But all the mortal goods you want can be reduced to one common denominator. That is, they are one and all valuable to you in proportion as "they make you feel good." If that is so, you should realize that the very cheapest way to buy that good feeling is by the coin called Accommodation.

Go out of your way to help, take the trouble to assist, think of other people and put yourself out to make things a bit easier for them; compliment, boost, lend a hand, and your pessimism will ooze from you, the sun will shine brighter, and your food will digest better, you will be surprised to discover how many friends you have; your critics will "fold their tents like the Arabs and silently steal away," and you will find that this old world is a pretty good place to live in after all.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON OLD MEASURES

By Garrett P. Serviss,
Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

IT is often wise to bring about reforms gradually, but it is never wise to make a muddle of them by mixing the new and the old. There is a bill before Congress to "decimalize" the foot and the ounce. Apparently this is intended as a compromise measure between adopting the full metric system of weights and measures and retaining the antiquated English system with all its inconvenience.

But this is simply to make a half-hearted reform by mutilating the old system without introducing a new one. Such a step would tend to destroy the chances of a real reform. Let the foot alone with its time-honored division into inches. The true reform does not call for any revision of the existing system, and does not demand its total destruction.

It simply says: "Here is a better system, all worked out, now in universal use in science, and having its units and its divisions thoroughly adjusted; let us substitute it for the older, inferior system. But don't try to mix the two."

The foot, the yard, the inch, the pound, the ounce, are sacred in the minds of many people. Some think that they were divinely inspired and that their prototypes are to be found in the Great Pyramid, where they were placed as models of what God wished men to employ in weighing and measuring. Those who believe that certainly will never accept mutilated substitutes for their sacrosanct standards. They will never reckon in "digits" instead of in inches.

And, in truth, what is the use of anybody taking these liberties with the foot and putting the inch out of existence? Dividing the foot into ten digits instead of twelve inches is an unnecessary introduction of the decimal division, which would make more difficult the task of comparing the two systems, to say nothing of the confusion that it would introduce in all references to former measurements recorded in feet and inches.

We already have in the metric system a properly chosen unit, the meter, which with its decimal subdivisions, has become familiar to all scientific minds everywhere, and to the popular mind also in most civilized countries, except Great Britain and the United States. To divide the foot decimally, while getting rid of the inch, would be of no advantage to the scientist, while it would be a stumbling block to all other persons.

In a word, for scientific purposes the decimalization of the foot would be valueless, while for popular use it would be confusing and the historical terminology it would be a nuisance. What is there in the proposed "digit" (1-10 foot) to make it a popular substitute for an inch (1-12 foot)? As for the other substitutions, "line" (1-100 foot) and "point" (1-1000 foot), what carpenter or cabinetmaker would prefer them to tenths, twentieths or hundredths of an inch? Those who use the metric system would not only not prefer them but would have no use whatever for them.

The proposed subdivision of the ounce into "diems," i. e., tenths; "cents," i. e., hundredths; and "mills," i. e., thousandths, after the manner of our decimal currency, does not appear so objectional. It would be a good way to get around the incommensurable unit called a grain, invented for "Troy" measure and forced, in tatters, into the avoirdupois frameworx.

But the wholly sensible and useful thing would be to adopt the metric system and store the other among the curiosities in the garret.
